Finish Fight Indicated on Lending Bill

Roosevelt Backers
Won't Surrender
On Program
MANY CHANGES
Measure Remains Principal Obstacle to Adjournment

Washington (AP)—The senate's bipartisan economy bloc forced an additional $25,000,000 reduction in the administration's lending bill today.

The chamber accepted, 44 to 35, a proposal by Majority Leader Barkley (D-Ky.) to cut from $100,000,000 to $75,000,000 a proposed new lending authorization for the Export-Import bank.

Barkley offered the amendment as a compromise after Senator Taft (R-Ohio) had demanded that the authorization be reduced to $25,000,000.

Action on the Barkley amendment brought the total of the lending bill down to $1,615,000,000 compared with a total of $2,800,000,000 when the measure originally was introduced.

Barkley's amendment also contained a provision requiring that borrowers from the Export-Import bank spend the money in the United States.

Senator Clark (D-Mo.) opposed the increased bank authorization on the ground it might be used to finance the sale of implements of war to foreign countries.

Senate leaders were hopeful that final action on the lending measure would be taken today.

They said a senate vote today might make possible adjournment by the end of the week. The house has not yet considered the bill.

Both the senate and the house banking committee punched big holes in the lending bill last week, but Senator Barkley (D-Ky.), the majority leader, and Speaker Bankhead told reporters they saw no reason to drop the battle for its enactment in one form.

After Mr. Roosevelt's return to the White House today from a weekend fishing trip, senate and house leaders were expected to report they would stand behind him for a showdown on the lending plan.

However, it was almost noon when Mr. Roosevelt returned and the regular Monday conference was cancelled.

Stephen T. Early, White House secretary, commented that the congressional leaders already knew what Mr. Roosevelt was interested in, namely, "when are they going to adjourn."

The lending bill was the most important measure, still being debated, but the legislators, weary after the seven months' session, were interested primarily in the question—when are we going home?

While leaders tentatively have set next Saturday as the adjournment deadline, House Leader Rayburn (D-Texas) has emphasized that congress can not quit then if the house is to act on lending, housing and wage-hour legislation.

The senate already has approved the housing measure, which doubles the $800,000,000 borrowing power of the United States Housing Authority and does not plan to act on amendments to the wage-hour law at this session.

The key to adjournment thus was held by the house, where a coalition of Republicans and dissenting Democrats has been controlling much of the procedure.

Housing Bill Up Tuesday
Working on routine legislation today, the house docketed the housing bill for consideration tomorrow.

The original lending bill contained $2,800,000,000 in authorization, but the house banking committee cut the total to $1,950,000,000 before approving it late Saturday.

The senate already has slashed the lending program to $1,600,000,000, and efforts to reduce it further were in progress today.

After a week of fractious debate, Barkley succeeded Saturday night in obtaining an agreement to limit further senate speeches to 15 minutes each.

This action was taken shortly after the senate adopted an amendment by Senator O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) to restrict government competition with private enterprise under the new program.

Republicans made a determined senate effort today to slash from $100,000,000 to $25,000,000 an authorization proposed in the lending bill for the Export-Import bank. Senator Taft (R-Ohio) offered an amendment to cut the bank's authorization.

Premier Explains Major Difficulty In 3-Power Talks

Definition of 'Indirect
Aggression' Chief
Stumbling Block

London (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain acknowledged before the house of commons today that definition of the term "indirect aggression" was the major snag holding up conclusion of the proposed British-French-Russian mutual assistance pact.

He made this disclosure in a foreign affairs debate a short time after he had announced Britain and France would send military missions to Moscow, probably this week, for staff talks.

"There is no secret," Chamberlain declared, "about the fact that the British government, the soviet government and the French government combined have not yet been able to agree upon a definition satisfactory to all parties on the term indirect aggression although all three realize that indirect aggression might be just as dangerous as direct aggression and all three desire to find a satisfactory method of providing against it."

Cites U. S. Action
Turning to a discussion of the United States action in denouncing the American-Japanese trade treaty, Chamberlain asserted:

"I believe the general objects and aims of the United States and Britain are closely similar, but it does

Refuses to Act in Insurance Fight

Martin Denies Request to Vacate License

Madison (AP)—Attorney General John Martin today denied a request by the Farmers' Mutual Automobile Insurance company that he commence action against State Insurance Commissioner Harry J. Mortensen to compel him to vacate a license to do business in Wisconsin issued to the State Farm Mutual Automobile Insurance Company of Bloomington, Ill.

Martin's letter pointed out his office was representing the commissioner in two actions brought against him by the State Farm Mutual Insurance Company of Madison, an affiliate of the Farmers' Mutual.

"It would be embarrassing and possibly improper for me to now proceed against the commissioner," Martin wrote.

The Farmers' Mutual, through its counsel, William J. P. Aberg, Madison, and the Wisconsin Mutual Insurance Alliance, represented by Harold M. Wilkie, Madison, asked Martin two weeks ago to take legal action to set aside the license.

They contended the policies and plan of automobile insurance of the Bloomington company were "unlawful" under Wisconsin laws "unfair and discriminatory," and would "result in irreparable injury to the public."

Specifically, the Illinois concern "seeks to evade the laws of the state" as to reserves and its life membership plan of operation, Aberg and Wilkie declared.

Investigate Alleged Missing Church Funds

Lansing, Mich. (AP)—Willard McIntyre, deputy attorney general of Michigan, revealed last night that two members of his staff are investigating an alleged shortage of funds of the Episcopal diocese of northern Michigan.

Members of an Episcopal parish in Sault Ste. Marie filed a civil suit in circuit court at Marquette against trustees of diocesan funds for the recovery of $76,500 following the resignation of the Rt. Rev. Hayward S. Ablewhite as bishop of the diocese.

McIntyre said two assistant attorneys general, Thomas Kenny and Robert Burns, have been assigned to work with John D. Voelkel, Marquette county prosecutor, on the case.

The diocesan committee announced there was a fund shortage after the death of A. E. Miller, Marquette attorney and guardian of the funds, last January. Subsequently Bishop Ablewhite resigned. The committee recently turned its information over to Prosecutor Voelkel.

Name Held on Charge Of Burglary Attempt

Madison (AP)—Emil Menzel, 48, today was named in a warrant charging attempted burglary, after District Attorney Herbert J. Steffen said he admitted trying to break into the vault in the sheriff's office where he was employed a night telephone operator. Eight slot machines, seized in a recent raid, were stored in the vault, but the money had been removed from them, Sheriff Edward Mitten said.

REUNION AFTER KIDNAPING

The Rev. Gerold Goldner (left), Magabore, Ohio, pastor, is shown here as he was reunited with his father, Dr. Jacob Goldner in Jerusalem after the younger man's release by Arabs who kidnaped him during a pilgrimage to the Holy Land. A ransom reported between $1,500 and $2,500 was paid. This picture was flown to London and sent to the United States by radio.

Railway Mail Guards Foil Robbers; Capture One and Save Army Air Field Money

Champaign, Ill. (AP)—Railway mail guards aboard an Illinois Central train shot it out with three robbers near Delroy, today, wounding and capturing one and saving a $56,000 pay roll destined for the army air field at Rantoul.

Driven off by a hail of bullets, two of the robbers escaped in a small black sedan on route 45 between Delroy and Onarga in Illinois.

The state highway police headquarters here reported a mail clerk was beaten on the head in the fight. The captured robber was taken into Champaign and sent to a hospital.

He was conscious, but the extent of his injuries was not learned at once.

C. E. Richards, the Illinois Central station agent at Onarga, said two of the robbers boarded the train when it made its scheduled stop there.

They had been loitering around the town all morning, he said, and just as the train was about to pull out one climbed aboard the engine tender and covered the fireman and engineer. The second climbed into the right-hand door of the mail car.

Before the train had gone 150 feet, Richards said, two shots rang out. The third robber kept up with the train in the automobile, driving along a road which parallels the tracks for some distance.

Railroad men at Delroy said that when the train passed slowly through there the fireman's face was bloody.

A blockade was thrown around Iroquois county, but several hours after the attempted holdup the fleeing car had not been sighted. State police reported the last two numbers of the car's license were 609 or 625.

The local No. 31, left Chicago at 7:30 a. m. (C. S. T.) today, bound for Champaign. The attempted robbery occurred about three hours later.

Bill Clarifies Title
Of Land for Indian Use

Washington (AP)—The house passed and sent to the senate today a bill to clarify title to certain lands acquired by the United States under the national industrial recovery act in nine states for Indians' use.

The lands, in Florida, Idaho, Michigan, Minnesota, Montana, North Dakota, Oklahoma, South Dakota and Wisconsin, were acquired through agriculture department agencies and transferred to the interior department by executive order.

The bill changes the form of the title to the lands so that it will be vested in the United States in trust for designated tribes.

The house also passed and sent to the senate a bill to authorize the general council of the Menominee tribe of Indians to pay out of tribal funds a salary and per diem expenses to officers of the tribe while away from home on official business.

Man Goes to Sleep
With Cigaret, False
Alarm Saves His Life

New London (AP)—Arthur Dailey, 52, 601 North Water street, fell asleep in bed Saturday night with a lighted cigarette and, literally, woke up shortly in Community hospital, badly burned about the face, chest and hands.

A false fire alarm probably saved him from worse injuries. The fire whistle tripped without cause about 11 o'clock Saturday night, awaking Mrs. Edna Dailey, an upstairs tenant. Smelling smoke, she investigated and found Dailey lying in a bed of flames. The blaze was extinguished and the man rushed to the hospital.

The fire department was undisturbed.

Tax Program Chief Topic Of Conference

Heil and Republican Senators Will Confer
Late Today

MAY OUTLINE STAND

Revenue Measure Up To-morrow for Further Consideration

Madison (AP)—Governor Heil and a group of Republican senators were scheduled to confer late today with the administration's troublesome tax program their main subject of discussion.

While the executive office asserted the conference was only another of a series, it was reported the fate of the $16,000,000 revenue bill might be decided.

With $2,000,000 lopped off by the senate last week, the bill comes up for further action tomorrow, with two substitutes providing for a general sales tax and highway diversion still to be voted on. Unless majority leaders can prevent further slashes, a battle for the adoption of one of these plans is expected on the floor.

Four Republican senators, including Majority Leader Maurice Cockley, of Beloit, met with the governor Friday after the senate adjourned abruptly to allow more time for discussion of the tax program.

Progressives Confer

The night before, it was learned, the Progressive senatorial bloc caucused with former Governor Philip F. LaFollette. The meeting was requested by the senators after one of the leaders, Michael Kresky, Green Bay, virtually saved the revenue bill from enuculation by a speech Thursday afternoon.

LaFollette was said to have "advised" them to oppose the sales tax, either on a general, scale or in a limited form on liquor and cigarettes, and support any measure based on ability to pay.

An informed source declared the former governor asserted there was no "principle" involved in the Heil tax bill, and added there had been no assurance that a sales tax might not be enacted to raise the admitted $10,000,000 deficit the administration will face even after passage of the $16,000,000 bill approved by the assembly.

Weekly Broadcasts

In the midst of the tax debate Saturday Governor Heil invited 16 Wisconsin radio stations to participate in a series of weekly broadcasts, direct from the executive office, for a discussion of what the 1939 legislature had done and problems that still confront the administration.

If the hookup is arranged Governor Heil will deliver the first address next Thursday evening and will be followed a week later by Lieutenant Governor Walter S. Goodland.

Governor Heil has scheduled as the first subject his reasons for asking reorganization of state departments, his recommendations for cutting the state payroll by dropping more than 1,200 employees and his proposal to place a limit on general property taxes.

Radio Priest Says
Anonymous Letters
Threaten His Life

Detroit (AP)—The Rev. Charles E. Coughlin, disclosing the receipt of letters threatening his life, yesterday challenged the senders to "carry out your threats, if you dare."

The Royal Oak (Mich.) priest, following his weekly broadcast, said that within the last two weeks he had received three letters "setting Labor day as the deadline" for the threats to be fulfilled. He added he had been receiving threats "for 13 years."

"I am not important, nor is this battle between individuals. Carry out your threats if you dare; but recognize that this contest is between God and anti-God, between the principles of Americanism and the principles of sovietism."

Father Coughlin said the letters, all anonymous and vague, had been turned over to postal inspectors.

German Charges His American Wife Being Held Prisoner at Concentration Camp at Dachau

Berlin (AP)—The United States consulate general today asked the German secret police whether Mrs. Franz Lem, said to be an American citizen, is in the Dachau concentration camp as charged by her husband.

Lem, who is German, informed the United States embassy in Paris that his wife had been interned at Dachau on a charge of having carried on anti-Nazi propaganda. Lem said his wife, formerly Lil Harrison, was born in New Orleans April 10, 1914.

Consular authorities said several days might elapse before an official reply from the Gestapo would reach them since investigations of this kind involve real time and correspondence between the central headquarters of the secret police and the commandant of the concentration camp.

Paris embassy officials said Lem had no papers to prove even his own identity or his wife's American citizenship.

An inquiry also was sent to the state department at Washington for a check on the wife's passport which, Lem said, was issued in New York.

He said he and his wife arrived at Hamburg from New York May 3 and shortly afterward both were arrested and interned at Dachau on charges of carrying on anti-Nazi propaganda.

Lem said he escaped from Dachau July 19 and made his way to the frontier, crossing into France under fire of German border guards.

42 Hurt As Police And Pickets Clash At Cleveland Plant

2 Groups Accused Of Stand Against Labor Legislation

Civil Liberties Subcommittee Charges Active Opposition

Washington (AP)—The senate civil liberties subcommittee linked two business groups today with what it called the policy of the Associated Industry of Cleveland "in thwarting the purposes of the national labor legislation."

Senators LaFollette (D-Wis.) and Thomas (D-Utah) declared in a committee report that the Cleveland group's activities "were part of a vast campaign organized by the National Association of Manufacturers, and carried out through its members and the affiliates of the national industrial council."

Their report also charged that Associated Industries, which it said was organized in 1920 "to maintain the so-called open shop," had in the past "supplied labor spies to members desiring them."

"Ever since the passage of Section 7-A (the labor section) of the national industrial recovery act," it said, "the Associated Industries of Cleveland has engaged in an interrupted and vigorous campaign to defeat the purpose of the national labor policy."

Espionage Charged
"This it did in the first place by continuing unabated its traditional services of espionage and strike-breaking. In addition, it urged upon its members the rejection of the policy of collective bargaining through the use of such devices as company unions and individual bargaining contracts."

The committee declared that Associated Industries "did not change its policy in any particular as a result of the passage of the national labor relations act."

After this act was upheld by the supreme court, the report went on, Associated Industries "sought to preserve the advantages of company unionism" through plans for "forming an employee-representation plan into a so-called independent or undominated union."

Medical Society Ruling Appealed

Justice Bureau Takes District Court Decision To Higher Tribunal

Washington (AP)—The justice department asked the United States Court of Appeals today to overrule a lower court decision that the American Medical Association could not be prosecuted on charges of violating the Sherman anti-trust act.

Justice Proctor of United States District Court ruled last week that the practice of medicine was a "learned profession," not a "trade," and therefore did not come under the provisions of the anti-trust law.

In appealing to the higher court, the government contended the district court erred in its decision.

Michigan Will Take Part in Pilgrimage
Of G. O. P. to Ripon

Madison (AP)—Michigan, which claims the city of Jackson as the birthplace of the Republican party, will cooperate in a nationwide pilgrimage next May to Ripon, Wis., also heralded as the place where the G. O. P. was founded, it was announced here today.

William A. Chappell, pilgrimage general chairman, said "the letters I have received from Michigan Republican leaders indicate they are ready to forget the possibility of any honors as to the origin of the party and join with us in making the pilgrimage a vital force in awakening a renewed spirit of real Americanism."

"Governor Dickinson of Michigan wrote that the plan for the pilgrimage was an excellent one and that he would be present at the Ripon ceremonies next May," Chappell said.

Dewey Launches Drive To Keep Fugitive From Getting Added Funds

New York (AP)—In a sweeping drive to dry up the hideaway finances of Louis "Pepe" Buchalter, described by District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey, as "the most dangerous industrial racketeer in the United States," the July grand jury today subpoenaed more than 30 officials in the garment and bakery industries once-dominated by the fugitive gangster.

The subpoenas directed the officials to bring their books and records for scrutiny by Dewey's aids in an effort to find out if any payments have been made to Lepke, now the object of a concerted man-hunt.

FORD IS 76

Detroit (AP)—Without fuss or fanfare, Henry Ford celebrated his seventy-sixth birthday anniversary yesterday. The motor magnate does not allow such anniversaries to interfere with his routine, and except for a flood of congratulatory letters and telegrams it was just another day in an active life.

With his family, Ford attended church services at Greenfield village, then remained most of the day with Mrs. Ford at Fairlane, his estate in suburban Dearborn.

Accidents Claim

Six Injured in Traffic
Mishaps in Outagamie
County, Vicinity

Six persons were injured in traffic accidents in Outagamie and vicinity while the state counted seven violent deaths over the weekend. Five were killed in automobile accidents, one drowned and another was struck by a train.

Four persons were injured when a car driven by Mary Proctor, 19, 625 N. Webster avenue, Green Bay, swerved off Highway 54 two miles west of Seymour and struck a light pole about 12:15 Sunday afternoon. The machine swerved when a rear tire went soft, according to Ronald Decker, county traffic officer.

The driver suffered an injury to her jaw. Gladys Burke, 1456 Willow street, Green Bay, suffered a knee injury. Other occupants of the car who were bruised were Marjorie Wiener, 519 Pine street, Green Bay, and Germaine Schneider, 1136 Stewart street, Green Bay.

A truck driven by Clarence Babcock, Menasha, and a car driven by Howard Kusserow, 1220 Crooks street, Green Bay, collided on Highway 41 just northeast of the city limits about 6 o'clock this morning. The truck was going east and

Body of Asphyxiated
Man Found in Home;
Motive Not Learned

Madison (AP)—William Christofferson, 34, of Chippewa Falls, construction supervisor at the new Marquette school, was asphyxiated last night in the basement of his home here.

Deputy Coroner Albert E. Brandt said Christofferson committed suicide, but that he could find no motive.

Miss Margaret Campbell, state board of health nurse who roomed at the home, found the body slumped over a gas plate, with two unlighted burners open, when she returned from a movie.

Julian Horgen found the coroner he had visited with Christofferson late in the day and that his friend had appeared in good spirits.

Brandt said Christofferson's wife and son, William, 7, returned to Chippewa Falls last Thursday.

According to Brandt other survivors are the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Christofferson, Chippewa Falls, now traveling in Europe; two brothers, one assistant principal of West High school here and the other an attorney at Chippewa Falls, and a sister, also of Madison.

Hull Predicts Prompt Action on Dairy Bill

Washington (AP)—Representative Hull (Prog.-Wis.) said today he was assured that the house agriculture subcommittee studying his bill to bring dairy products under the federal parity payment program would complete hearings on the measure this week.

Only testimony left to be heard is that of members of congress from dairy states. Hull said he believed action could be obtained in time to place the measure before the full committee at the next session of congress.

Many of Injured are Non-Strikers Try- ing to Work

TEAR GAS USED

New Violence Breaks Out
This Afternoon at Factory

Cleveland (AP)—New violence broke out late today at General Motors' strike-bound Fisher Body Corporation plant, where clashes between unionists and police left 42 injured this morning.

In view of Mayor Harold H. Burton and Safety Director Eliot Ness, who had just arrived at the east side plant area for an inspection, mounted police charged the CIO United Automobile Workers picket line to clear the way for a company car.

In the melee that followed, pickets smashed windows of the automobile with a shower of rocks. Police arrested three.

Repeated boos and catcalls from the large crowd greeted Burton and Ness, who had issued a proclamation prohibiting "riotous assembly or mass formation" in the area.

No tear gas was used by police in the afternoon skirmish. A brick-tossing and tear-gas bombing riot, a crowd estimated by police at 5,000 to 6,000 massed at the gates to "stop the plant."

Many of those injured were non-striking employees attempting to enter the plant. One worker was reported by company officials to be near death after automobiles carrying employees through picket lines had been overturned and burned.

Tear gas bombs thrown by police were picked up and tossed back by pickets in several instances. When police failed to disperse the crowd, police turned the hose on the pickets.

Police quickly rounded up 12 men from the picket line, loaded them in cars and took them to the nearest precinct station.

They were released later on waivers. Three admitted operating a sound truck without permits, and nine admitted creating a disturbance.

About 100 police were on duty at the plant today, sent there after a CIO organizer had urged all union men to turn out to "stop this plant."

When rioting started, 100 more police were dispatched to the plant. Police Chief George Matawitz said strikers had agreed to a truce pending a union committee conference.

Police Captain Michael J. Blackwell said at least 300 tear gas shells and bombs were discharged in the course of the rioting, which lasted about an hour.

"Rioters had tear gas shotguns with shells which we believe were from Flint, Mich., and tear gas bombs, which we believe came from Pittsburgh," Captain Blackwell said.

Fighting Spreads
The captain said violence started after a brick was thrown through the window of a non-striker's automobile entering the plant. Fighting was stopped at once at that gate, but broke out anew at another entrance, Blackwell said.

"I heard a report that sounded like a gun, but I don't know if any shots were fired," Blackwell said.

After the rioting was checked, demonstrators collected around Donovan's Loop, a barroom near the plant.

The crowd listened to speeches and to announcements from a sound truck.

From the truck came the announcement: "There are 10,000 here today. There will be 20,000 tomorrow, if necessary."

Of those injured, five were given first aid inside the plant before they were taken to a hospital.

First Serious Violence
The rioting was the first serious outbreak at the Cleveland plant since skilled tool and die workers went on strike three weeks ago demanding a supplemental agreement.

After the melee, shattered glass, tear gas shells and rocks littered streets around the plant.

Scores of women joined in the demonstration police reported. Cap-

Sees Opposition to Reduced Personnel

Madison (AP)—Roy E. Kubista, executive secretary of the state employees association, declared Saturday that Governor Heil's proposal to reduce state personnel 10 per cent as an economy measure would arouse public protest.

"A 10 per cent reduction in mental hospital personnel would undoubtedly reduce the hospitals to mere custodial places, a fact which would prove more costly to the public in the long run," Kubista said.

He added that friends and relatives "expect every reasonable effort to be made to cure patients and return them to society as self-sustaining citizens."

Garner Plans to Make 'Front Porch' Campaign in 1940

Does Not Intend to Make Appearances at Party Convention

Washington—(P)—Vice President Garner was reported authoritatively today to be planning a "front porch" campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940. Garner's close friends "aid he had no thought of making public appearances before the party's national convention early next summer. They added he already has turned down numerous invitations to speak and to attend public functions.

Neither was he expected to issue political statements during the months before the convention. He was described by associates as believing there should be no elaboration of published reports that he would seek the presidential nomination even if President Roosevelt should try for a third term.

Will Return to Texas
The vice president will return to his Uvalde, Texas, home immediately after the adjournment of congress. There, his intimates said, he will receive any party leaders who wish to call on him, voicing his views on national issues and Democratic strategy for the next campaign. First, however, he will go on a fishing trip in his auto trailer.

All details of the campaign for nomination will be left in the hands of E. B. Germany, Texas Democratic chairman. Germany will be free to discuss Garner's candidacy publicly, it was reported, and may confer frequently with the vice president during the congressional recess.

Garner's associates said he was highly pleased with results of a mail campaign now being carried on by Germany. This involves sending letters to Democratic workers and others throughout the country. When the receipt of a letter replies in favor of Garner for the presidency, he is asked to solicit five friends in Garner's behalf.

McNUTT GETS BACKING
Cleveland—(P)—There appeared little doubt in the minds of political observers today that Paul V. McNutt, recently appointed federal social security administrator, stands on the right side of the fence in the Roosevelt administration so far as foreign policy is concerned.

The former commissioner to the Philippines, and Indiana's hope for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1940, approved in a party day address yesterday the foreign policy of cooperation advanced by President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

McNutt warned isolation would mean a militarized America capable of defending the shores of the entire western hemisphere, the abandonment of many markets for agricultural products, and the stagnation of manufacturing centers.

He said the recent unsuccessful effort of the Roosevelt administration to obtain repeal of the arms embargo provision of the neutrality act had "served to present the issue whether we can withdraw from the entire current of world affairs, even though the rest of the world sinks into the disintegrating chaos of a general war."

No Similar Problem
"Our real stake in the current controversy is whether we spend the next two or three generations in a militarized America, or whether we can preserve America in the classic pattern of a great democratic republic of peace."

"We do not have the simple question of finding our own business. I wish we did. We have the question of whether we will keep quiet while other people mind and mould our business for us."

He urged a national policy of cooperation with "like-minded countries to work for an enduring peace—not peace by surrender and flight. "Certain nations openly, even brutally, state that their aim is to make peace by bought by surrender, while certain nations, like ourselves, only desire to keep the peace."

A crowd of 45,000 attended the international peace day program sponsored by the World Poultry Congress.

New Boiler Will be Installed in School

The county executive committee Saturday authorized the public grounds and building committee to purchase a new boiler for the Outagamie County Rural Normal school provided the cost does not exceed by more than $450 the original allotment of $2,000 made by the county board.

Warren Smith, head of the WPA tax listing project, was engaged to continue the project until Sept. 1 in case the work is discontinued as a WPA program.

Grasshopper War Is On; Farmers Can Get Supplies of Poison

Farmers who wish to get poison bait for protection against grasshoppers may do so by calling J. F. Magnus, county agent.

Magnus reported today that grasshoppers are hatching throughout most of the county and that a mixing station has been set up at Apple Creek. Six townships have been circled and individual farmers throughout the county are calling for the bait, Magnus said.

"The dryer weather conditions are the more dangerous the grasshoppers are apt to do to crops," he stated. "Remember that every female grasshopper killed means about 300 eggs less for hatching next year."

Suspect Held in Island Slaying

Detroit Restaurant Operator Denies Shooting At St. Pierre

Detroit—(P)—Inspector John O. Whitman of the homicide squad said today that photographs and fingerprints of Nicholas Baszilius Makris, a police prisoner, had been sent to the French island of St. Pierre to determine if he is the man wanted there for a murder of the run-running era.

Whitman said the Makris admitted his name but denied the shooting of Gustav Karlson on St. Pierre the night of Jan. 21, 1928.

The Makris wanted on St. Pierre was believed to have escaped aboard a schooner and later landed in the United States. He was tried in default, convicted and sentenced to life at penal servitude.

Makris had operated a restaurant here for several years. He applied for naturalization recently, and, as a matter of routine data on him was sent to police departments in principal cities. New York police reported that a man by that name was wanted on St. Pierre.

Would Put Idle Forest Areas Into Production

Washington—(P)—Senator Walsh (D-Mass) proposed today a bill intended to restore idle forest land to production and "help to rehabilitate men and bring communities new forest areas without additional appropriations."

The senator said he would introduce the bill with Senators Byrnes (D-S. C.), Brown (D-Mich.) and LaFollette (R-Wis.) as co-sponsors.

Denunciation of Treaty May Be Undoing of Japan's Plan For Power and Independence

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(P)—The more one examines the possibilities, the more apparent it is that Washington's denunciation of the American-Japanese treaty of 1911 is one of the most important diplomatic developments of the whole sensational chain surrounding the Japanese conquest of China.

The Japanese campaign in China is calculated not only to give Japan complete political and economic control, but to make her self-sustaining.

There is one Japanese group which even advocates the return of Japan to the seclusion of Perry days when self-sufficiency has been achieved. This group belongs to the powerful military party which is responsible for Japan's adventures-at-arms on the continent.

More liberal-minded Japanese do not believe their country will adopt any isolationist policy of such drastic nature. Japan has made it clear in about 30 many words, however, that she does propose to rule eastern Asia, and that she does intend to make herself independent of the outside world for supplies.

China's Hohe possesses the essential iron ore. From Shansi and Manchukuo would come coal, and shale from which can be extracted oil. Japan must have cotton, and she has been getting most of this from America and India. Now the modern shoguns assert that the big cotton crop of northern China will go far towards filling the bill. And so the story goes.

These reasons alone are sufficient to make it highly improbable that to terminate the treaty the Japanese will take any action which will lead Washington to impose an embargo. An American embargo is about the last thing Nippon wants.

Transfer of Welfare Department Delayed

Transfer of the Outagamie County Public Welfare department to the county pension department is being delayed until the state legislature appropriates funds to carry on the welfare department for another year. The county board at its last meeting voted to combine the two departments with the stipulation that the state continue to meet the expense of the welfare department.

T. S. Davis, pension department head, the combined departments, William Farnum, former city relief investigator, has been named supervisor of certification under the joint set-up.

Fair Weather Is Forecast Tuesday

Maximum and minimum temperatures during the 24-hour period preceding 9 o'clock this morning were 86 degrees at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon and 66 degrees at 4 o'clock this morning, according to records at the power plant of the Wisconsin Michigan Power company.

Secretary Hopkins Emerges as Fishing Champion of Cruise

Washington—(P)—Secretary Hopkins, credited with the catch of a 65-pound marlin, emerged today as the fishing champion of President Roosevelt's weekend cruise in the Atlantic off Ocean City, Mr.

Earlier reports from the Maryland shore had said Mr. Roosevelt himself caught two marlin, one a 70-pounder, but Press Secretary Stephen Early explained the president held a line less than an hour and altogether and caught none. First reports, which came from Captain Crawford Savage, who helped set tackle on the presidential yacht, apparently had confused the whole party with the president as an individual.

Besides the commerce secretary's marlin, Rear Admiral Ross T. McIntyre caught one of 52 pounds and Brigadier General Edwin Watson a 45-pounder.

Claims World Record With 58-Pound Muskie

Hayward, Wis.—(P)—A world record for the 58-pound, 9 ounce muskie he caught in Grindstone Lake was claimed today by Louis Spry, resort owner. Local authorities said the muskie exceeded by five ounces one caught several years ago in the Lake of the Woods, Canada.

Spry made his catch Friday, claiming a week in which other fishermen caught muskies weighing 32, 45 and 48 pounds.

Wire Weavers Protest City's Donation to Picnic Inadequate

The Appleton Wire Weavers Protective association in a letter to the city council today protested that the city council's donation of $150 for the Appleton Trades and Labor council's Labor day celebration was inadequate. The letter was signed by Kurt A. Koletzke, recording secretary.

The Labor day celebration committee last week voted unanimously to return the $150 to the city council feeling that the council had discriminated against the labor group. The trades council decided to finance the entire cost of its Labor day observance.

The letter from the Wire Weavers union follows in part:

As Ernie Pyle Sees America

BY ERNIE PYLE

Mexican Hat, Utah—In each of these little settlements down through the deserts of the Navajo country there is one white family which stands out.

In some cases they wouldn't have to stand very far, because there is only one white family. But, with only one exception, we find them to be unusual people.

Each of these settlements comes to be known as much by the name of the family as by its real name. And so it is that "The Nevills" is practically synonymous with Mexican Hat.

You probably have heard of The Nevills, although you may not remember it. For it was Norman Nevills who kept the wire services and newspapers in hot water for more than a month last summer with his expedition down the treacherous Colorado river.

The party was 42 days making the 660 miles from Green River, Utah, to Boulder dam. For days and weeks they were supposedly "lost" and even dead. But they came through, and if you've ever shot a rapids, with Norman Nevills you'll understand why they came through.

It is about Norman Nevills that I'm writing today. There are two families of Nevills here. Norman and his wife and little girl in one house. And his parents in another.

The elder Nevills was a California oil engineer. He came to this majestic bare country in 1920 as an oil man. He has been here ever since. Today he is in very poor health, and he says that even to say a few words exhausts him.

Norman and his mother run the Indian trading post, and the tasteful little lodge where they put up those wayfarers from far away who travel this part of the desert. To Norman, those things are sidelines. The river is his main life.

Lost Money in Oil
Norman came here in 1925, to monkey in the oil business with his father. He is a college graduate from California, and had studied engineering. They had a lot of money at one time.

But they shot it all in oil, and didn't get it back. Norman is glad, now, for otherwise he might never have stayed so long, and today he loves it here above any other place in the world. He is, I would say, not much over 30.

In the daytime, he wears old overalls and a shirt with the sleeves torn out. In the evening he changes to a spic summer sports outfit.

He speaks some Navajo and dickers impatiently with the Indians who bring in rugs to trade for supplies. His mother says Norman offers the Indians too little. Norman says his mother offers them too much. But the Indians must like it for they're always hanging around.

Norman rolls cigarettes from canned tobacco, and uses words that come right from college. He has a little touch of exaggeration about his conversation that adds awe and flavor for the tourist. He can talk oil or Navajo rugs or desert or river with you.

Norman has been playing with the rapids of the San Juan river for years. But it was the expedition of last summer that made him a river man to be reckoned with.

Schedule Is Full
That expedition, in fact, is likely to provide him a livelihood for many years. Because it has publicized his name as a river guide—and it's from the river that Norman mainly makes his living. His summer is scheduled full, and far into the fall.

What Norman does is take summer parties on an eight-day boat ride from Mexican Hat, on the San Juan, clear down to Lee's Ferry, on the Colorado.

He charges $62.50 per person for the eight-day trip, and that includes grub, a cook, sleeping bags, a long taste of the simple outdoor life, much scenery, and many thrills.

On the ninth day, Norman pulls his boats from the water, loads them on trailers, and in one hard day's driving over rough Navajo roads, is back again at Mexican Hat.

And on the tenth day, he's headed down river again with a new party. He's practically a street car motorman of the San Juan river. "See the desert by water," is his motto.

He wants to make some kind of hazardous river trip late this fall that will hit the front pages again. He hasn't figured out yet just what it will be.

Tells of Rapids
Normal tells some whoopers about the force of the vicious rapids, and I believe them all. For instance, he used to wear a stocking cap on the river. It kept his hair from flying, since the wind doesn't blow it like it would an ordinary hat.

But once, in a particularly bad rapids, the water came deluging the whole boat with such terrific force that it took the stocking cap and pulled it right down over Norman's face, clear down to his neck, and he couldn't see a thing.

Although rapids-riding is rough going, Nevills says he has never known anybody to be seasick, or perhaps you should say river-sick. Some people, however, have claustrophobia and can't go through the high-walled canyons.

He says you've either got the knack of landing in rapids, or you haven't. If you've got it, he says he can make a rapids-shooter out of you in three hours.

Nevills says that, in all his years on the river, he has never overturned a boat. He says some rivermen contend you have to have spills to learn, but he doesn't agree.

The thing I like most about Nevills is his attitude toward the river. In all these years the river has never nicked him, yet he has an intensely respectful fear of it.

His feeling shows through everything he does. The greatest aviators I know are those who are always a little afraid. They're the ones I like to fly with. And so it is with Nevills, and the river he loves and fears.

Asks City Clerk to Help Him Find Brother

Milwaukee—(P)—Delbert Carlson, son-in-law of Marshall, Wis., in a letter today asked City Clerk L. P. Bellingham to search adoption and birth records in an effort to locate a brother whom he had never seen.

Freiberg, who was born in Milwaukee, said he recently learned of the existence of a brother, Clarence, who he believes now is 28 years old.

Freiberg said his parents, Carl and Clara Carlson, died when he was a child and that he had taken the name of Freiberg from a family that cared for him.

Asks Hull to Clarify Termination Notice

Washington—(P)—Kensuke Horinouchi, the Japanese ambassador asked Secretary Hull today for clarification of Hull's notice of termination of the 1911 treaty of commerce and navigation between the United States and Japan.

Horinouchi, who had been vacationing at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., said he discussed the situation generally with the secretary of state and had not brought with him any representations on the part of his government. He said he called on Hull solely on his own initiative.

Juniper Is Recovering After Chute Accident

Monroe—(P)—Harold Beach, whose back was broken in a parachute jump at Monticello, was reported in a favorable condition in a hospital here today. His recovery was expected.

Beach, a Monroe youth of about 28, provided the feature attraction at a Monticello community event Saturday. He was attempting to land at a particular spot by manipulating the chute ropes, but air spilled from the bag at about 200 feet and he dropped, the parachute almost limp.

Pegler Says Lewis Attack Makes Garner Out a Patriot

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—In calling Mr. Garner a poker-playing, whisky-drinking, evil old man, John L. Lewis was completely ambiguous until he explained that his remarks were intended as a personal attack. Up to then they might have been construed as a boost, even as the prelude to an endorsement of Mr. Garner as president in 1940, for some of Mr. Lewis' best friends have been poker players and whisky drinkers, even gamblers and drunkards, and he has never declared any marked aversion, social or political, for individuals whose private character, measured by performance, seemed no prettier than that of the Cactus Coolidge.

Mr. Garner is a 9 o'clock man who has been married to his No. 1 wife for 44 years, and if he is notorious at all it is for his domesticity. In this respect, he might be called a rank reactionary, but it would seem unwise to go before the country on that issue.

It was no secret, even before Mr. Lewis cut loose with his personalities, that Mr. Garner played perhaps the best hand of poker in Washington since the death of Indian Charlie Curtis, the old prairie jockey.

Mr. Lewis would do well to ponder whether, in attempting to discredit the vice president, he has not repudiated some of his own best friends and as far as Mr. Garner is concerned, publicized rather than endearing private traits which his backers could not gracefully mention.

As to the charge of labor bating, inspection of the case will reveal a contention that John L. Lewis, is labor, that others claiming to represent workmen are counterfeits, and that workmen who decline to yield their liberties to him and pay him an income tax, or submit under pressure, to the detriment of their rights, are either enemies of labor or faceless nonentities who don't know what is best for them and need his benign coercion. Only on that premise is it evil to oppose Mr. Lewis and his ambitions, an evil now attributed to Mr. Garner.

Mr. Lewis' ambition is to recruit or coerce into the C.I.O. every working man and woman in the United States and to collect from the earnings of all those millions by legalized extortion, in the shape of the check-off, an annual tribute comparable to the treasury's collections for the phantom fund for social security.

His organization, starting with a concealed purpose, now openly aspires to conditions which could censor out of the entire press all material hostile to the C.I.O. and suppress all books and pamphlets unfriendly to his personal leadership and the C.I.O. as labor.

State Provides Mansion but Governor Doesn't Live in It

Madison—While officially tenanted by the Julius P. Heils, the state's first family, the big, rambling and comfortable mansion provided by the state as a home for its governors has gone practically unoccupied during the first seven months of the new governor's term. Moreover, there is no sign that the Heil family intends to occupy the dwelling during the remainder of the governor's term.

Only occupants of the building, besides the servants, are two Heil nephews, one of whom is employed in the governor's office at the capitol. The second young man is a student at the University of Wisconsin.

Her governor-husband spends his weekends at his Milwaukee home, and most of his leisure while he is in Madison at the capital city's exclusive Madison club, which is also the residence of most of his official circle of secretaries and advisors, and some of the key men he has appointed to high state governmental positions during his term. Occasionally, according to reports, the governor spends an evening at the official residence of the chief executive.

The state gives the governor a home, an automobile, chauffeur and household servants, besides an allowance for maintenance.

Tenth of a Second Decides Title in Senior Girls Race

Jane Knapstein Wins Cup In Closest Contest of Swim Meet

New London — A tenth of a second decided the title in the senior girls' swim meet at the city swim meet at Hatten park pool Saturday—and by such a scant margin Jane Knapstein was awarded the senior girls' swimming cup for the meet, the third successive year she has won a girls' cup. She beat Marie Bult to take the meet by a bare point.

Three successive victories in a given class entitle the winner to permanent possession of the cup, but Jane won the first two years in the junior division and now has to start all over. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Knapstein.

About 70 of the 80 swimmers who were registered turned out to make the third annual meet a success. Mary Jane Brault and Donald Schoenrock made clean sweeps in the junior girls' and junior boys' swimming events, each taking first in the crawl, sidestroke and freestyle to win the cups in their respective divisions. Donald is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Schoenrock. Lyle Quant took two firsts to win the senior boys' cup.

Ernest Holliday, a junior, competed in and won the senior boys' diving contests. Maurice Levine was second and James Bodoh third. Robin Lyon won the junior boys' diving. Tom Malby, a youngster from Duluth who has been visiting here the last four weeks with his grandmother, Mrs. C. D. Hemmy, took second, and Louis Stern third.

Marie Bult won the senior girls' diving. Rosemary McDaniel was second and Jane Knapstein third. Junior girls' diving honors were taken by Barbara Wells, Ellen Smith and Lorraine Allen in that order.

Ribbons and pins furnished by the New London Recreation department and the New London Sports association were awarded to the first three place winners in each of the 18 events. First three place point winners in the four divisions were as follows:

CHART SHOWS TREND OF AUTO FATALITIES IN STATE The above chart prepared by the Wisconsin state highway commission shows how the number of highway deaths for the first six months of 1939 compare with the record for the corresponding period of 1938 in various counties. Outagamie county is one of 26 that have had increases in fatalities.

County's Traffic Deaths Increase Over 1938 Figure

Six Fatalities Recorded In First Six Months Of This Year

Outagamie county is one of 26 Wisconsin counties whose highway fatality records for the first six months of 1939 compare unfavorably with the corresponding period of 1938.

During the 6-month period of this year, there were six deaths from auto accidents in Outagamie county, with 100 injuries and 152 accidents.

Seven other counties had the same number of fatalities in the two periods, while 38 counties registered fewer deaths this year.

Wisconsin had 257 traffic deaths in the six months period this year, compared with 230 for the first half of 1938, or an increase of nearly 12 per cent.

A little county with a big safety record, Pepin county, has just rounded out 18 straight months without a fatality—the longest consecutive safety period registered by any Wisconsin county in recent years.

Among the larger counties, the record of Winnebago with only one death recorded in the first six months of 1939, is outstanding.

Walworth county had seven fatalities in the first six months of 1938, but not a single one in the same period of this year, while LaFayette county had four in the first six months last year and none in the same period this year.

4 Hard Hit
Two northwestern counties and two southeastern counties have been hard hit this year in their safety efforts. Barron had eight deaths in the first six months this year, while Douglas had seven, yet these counties went through the same period of 1938 without a fatality.

Racine had reported only five deaths for the first half of 1938, but now has 15, while Rock county, listed only two in the first half of last year, contrasted with 16 deaths in the first half of 1939. Milwaukee county's long record for safety was endangered in the first half of 1939, state records showing 42 fatalities this year, compared with only 35 in the first half of last year.

Counties on the state highway commission's safety roll for the first six months of 1939, because their street and highway records were free from any traffic fatalities, were Adams, Ashland, Bayfield, Burnett, Crawford, Kewaunee, LaFayette, Lincoln, Marinette, Pepin, Taylor, Trempealeau, Vilas, and Walworth.

What's New at the Library
The "how-to-do-things" books are leading the field in the new books at Appleton Public library, several volumes which fall in this category having arrived last week. One of a rather general nature is "How to Get Things Done" by David Seabury and Alfred Uhler which presents a method of dealing with the fog of unfinished business which surrounds almost everyone. It deals with such human problems as how to get started after a vacation, what to do when your mind wanders, how to begin to do something, the secret of getting others to do things for you, and the like.

"How to Get a Job" by Challiss Gore tackles a definite problem. It puts the jobseeker behind the employer's desk and lets him see himself as the employer sees him. In a world where jobs are hard to get one must stand out in a crowd, the book points out, and it tells how to go about it, outlining procedure from the writing of the want-ad to the clinching of the decision at the interview.

Primarily for the vocal student but almost as important for the person who wants to improve his speaking voice is "How to Improve Your Voice" by Gregory Krasnoff. Information, both physical and psychological, is given, the book summarizing the study and experience of the author.

Companion volumes "Careers for Women" edited by Doris E. Fleischman and "Careers for Men" edited by Edward L. Bernays, consist of a series of discussions by famous men and women designed to help one find the field that holds the greatest chance of success for himself.

Politicians Do Not Like Hatch Bill—Lawrence

Many Had to Vote for It But Would Like Veto By White House

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Will "clean elections" be a major issue before the country next year, and, specifically, the use of governmental funds and power to perpetuate the party in power?

The temper of the present congress has been gradually rising, in conformity with public opinion, to restrict the use of public offices and money so that it cannot become a weapon of party politics of such great advantage to the officeholders as to dictate not only the course of nomination within the party, but to influence or coerce large groups of voters dependent on government subsidies or aids.

The first test on the issue came when the congress voted to keep the WPA out of politics. The second test has just come with the passage of the Hatch bill which goes much farther and forbids all political activity of officials below the major executives in Washington.

President Roosevelt's comments to the press concerning his attitude toward the bill, which came to him for signature or veto a few days ago, are not to be construed, he said, as meaning that he had made up his mind one way or the other. But it was plain to see that he did not like the restrictive nature of the bill, though he did say he favored the general objectives.

What Mr. Roosevelt dislikes is that the bill puts the federal officeholder in a different class from any other citizen and keeps him from exercising the same privileges in politics that others have. But that is one of the penalties of office, holding in the executive branch of the government, just as it is in the judicial branch. There is no law which says federal judges shall not be delegates to conventions and party managers, but they refrain from doing it and public opinion sanctions such self-restraint.

Self Restraint
There would be no need for a law governing the activities of federal employees, if there had not been a noticeable lack of self restraint in respect of which political party is in power.

Is the Hatch bill constitutional? Lawyers at the department of justice say it is, and undoubtedly over the week-end the White House was so advised or will be in the next 24 hours. The reason the Hatch bill might be unconstitutional is that it seems to deprive federal employees from exercising their constitutional rights to engage in politics.

But the bill took account of that possible objection by pointing out that nothing in the measure was to be construed as interfering with the right of a federal employee to exercise his voting privilege or to express his views on public questions.

The president speaks of the Hatch bill as vague, and it necessarily is vague for the federal employee who wants to step beyond the line of expressing his own views to the point of attempting to influence others. Many statutes are similarly vague. Thus the labor relations act which the president signed does not define in specific terms what is meant by "influencing" an employee in his attitude for or against a union. The labor board has endeavored to define the vague word and has built up quite a set of rulings on the subject.

So it is with respect to the language in the most important sections of the Hatch bill about which doubts have been expressed by the president. The text is taken almost word for word from the present civil service rules which have been interpreted in specific instances again and again so there is little doubt what the restrictions are.

Civil Service Rules
One embarrassment arising out of the fact that Senator Hatch copied the text of the civil service rules is that if the measure should fail to become law or be thrown out by the courts, it would mean that the safeguards thrown around the entire civil service, to keep it free from political influence, would be eliminated. For certainly there could not be one rule governing 600,000 employees and another rule governing the other 300,000.

The politicians do not like the Hatch bill. Many voted for it because they did not dare to place themselves on record against it, but they would have preferred to kill it in conference or to see the White House veto it.

Although public opinion has in various ways been apparently in favor of a restrictive measure like the Hatch bill so far as politics in general is concerned, the measure passed by both houses put President Roosevelt, to use the vernacular, "on the spot." If he vetoed it, the opposition could say he did it to assure himself a re-nomination or to assist his own party to stay in power. If he signed it, the political managers could easily alibi themselves and, when asked to do certain organization work they didn't really want to do, might readily blame the Hatch bill. Small wonder the president has called it vague and manifested his displeasure with the contents though not with the "objectives" of the proposal.

Outagamie County Age Grants Under Average of State

1 Out of Every 5 Persons Over 65 Received Assistance in June

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau Madison—One out of every five persons in Wisconsin over 65, totaling 46,566 during the month of June, received average old age assistance grants of $21.20 which amounted to approximately $1,000,000, the state pension department reported today.

A total of $1,467,000 was distributed last month by county pension departments for the benefit of the aged, dependent children and blind persons in Wisconsin, it was announced.

Of that total $422,000 went to the support of 26,508 children living in 11,425 different homes. The average child received $15.78.

Only $45,000, however, went to blind persons, 1,979 of them. Blind pensions have remained at practically the same level for a whole year, the only change being an increase in the average grant of assistance from $22.12 in June of last year to $22.78 in June of 1939, it was reported.

Here are the number of persons, the average grant they received in June, and the total expenditure for old-age pension in counties near Appleton:

County	No.	Grant	Total
Outagamie	797	$19.52	$15,558
Brown	597	18.62	11,118
Waupaca	782	21.35	16,694
Calumet	174	18.32	3,189
Shawano	558	19.22	10,727
Manitowoc	554	20.60	11,414
Winnebago	128	20.62	2,637

The range of county averages, the state pension office said, in June was from $15.73 to $26.61.

Roosevelt Looks Under Bed For Hatch Bill Objections

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Judging by President Roosevelt's press conference discussion of the Hatch bill to prohibit pernicious political activity, the president is under strong temptation to rise above principle and veto the legislation.

It does not seem possible that one who has made the fight for real democratic government that Mr. Roosevelt has made could stick the presidential knife into this measure.

Yet Mr. Roosevelt certainly seemed to be groping around to find objections to the bill. Significantly, it was only when a friendly correspondent brought up the question that Mr. Roosevelt said he was in favor of the objectives of the bill. That leading question gave the president opportunity to cover himself. Otherwise his press conference remarks would have carried an entirely critical connotation.

In these questioning observations, Mr. Roosevelt sounded much more like a Liberty League lawyer quibbling over life questions, crossing bridges before he came to them, than the Roosevelt that I have heard so often giving the benefit of the doubt to the side of measures that would make our democracy work more equitably and with more justice.

Under the Hatch bill, a government employee could sit in a political meeting, in the audience. But could he sit on the platform? Mr. Roosevelt is worried about that. Suppose a government employee had a good friend running for office. Could he voluntarily send his candidate friend a check for $25? That worries Mr. Roosevelt. Remember, Mr. Roosevelt, when the reorganization bill fight was on and your enemies were saying that conceivably under the bill you could do this and could do that and be a dictator and wreck the government? Or when the simple humanitarian child labor amendment was being labelled the "youth control" amendment and it was being said that this would make it possible to prosecute parents who paid their children for wiping the kitchen dishes? Or when the AAA was going to be used to curb the liberties of the farmer? When everything that was proposed to deal with our economic dislocations was termed a vehicle for revolution?

Every Reactionary Used to Howl About Dangers They said you would use the gold devaluation power to precipitate inflation. Every single proposition was stretched out by the Liberty League lawyers to the extreme fantastic degree. They solemnly declared the Wagner National Labor Relations act unconstitutional, unfortunately without first consulting the supreme court. When they attacked the first Guffey coal act, while it was pending in house committee, you wrote urging the committee "not to permit doubts as to constitutionality, however reasonable, to block the suggested legislation."

Those were the days when every reactionary, every lawyer who had a big business client, every stooge whose principal was in danger of having his wings clipped, was howling about despotism and was seeing things under the bed now?

The Hatch bill borrows the language of the civil service commission's ruling against political activity. It is rule 1, and it tells civil service employees that they "shall take no active part in political campaigns," and that's exactly what the Hatch bill says regarding other government employees.

Civil Service Has Been Getting Along All Right
For 50 years the civil service commission has been policing employees under the merit system, interpreting and applying this and other rules. If Mr. Roosevelt wants to find out exactly what an employee can or cannot do under that language, the commission surely would be glad to send him a copy of its interpretations. The printed and widely circulated copy I have before me says, for instance, that employees may attend political

Questions Use of Federal Funds for New Paper Factory

Washington—In response to pleas from papermill labor unions for protection of their interests, Congressman Reid F. Murray, Waupaca Republican, has questioned, in the Congressional Record, the "advisability, distributability, or fairness of having federal funds used to start new paper plants in competition with paper mills already in existence."

He referred to a three and a half million dollar Reconstruction Finance Corporation loan used to establish a southern paper mill.

At the same time, Murray pointed out that "there is a great opportunity for domestic production of paper, shown in the fact that last year over $101,000,000 worth of newsprint was imported, duty free.

meetings as spectators, which answers one of Mr. Roosevelt's questions. Though it has an elaborate list of "don'ts," it doesn't say whether they may sit on the platform or not. This question, which seems to disturb President Roosevelt so greatly in connection with the Hatch bill, appears not to have arisen at all in 50 years of civil service operation.

Certainly problems have arisen unexpectedly throughout the years that the civil service commission has been keeping federal merit system employees out of active politics. But they seem to have been answered without undue commotion, as they arose. I can't remember when they've had a major incident.

Come, now, Mr. President, don't be like Colonel McCormick. There isn't a thing under the bed that's going to hurt a government employee who is sticking to his job.

THE ANCIENT QUESTION OF RELIEF

Every time congress takes a step to impose some sort of reform upon our incorrigible relief system the U. S. Conference of Mayors issues warning that the skies are about to fall.

This Conference, once influential, is becoming nearly worthless in the American political system since the public has come to realize that its recommendations are not aimed at solving a bothersome problem but entirely at shunting the grief and expense from the local to the national treasury.

Just recently the Mayors issued a pronounced objection to the change in the federal law that required local governments to assume 25 per cent of WPA projects expense. The argument is that many of these cities have no local funds available for any such purpose. Even conceding the truth of the contention neither has Washington any funds available except as it borrows. And, within constitutional limits of borrowing power as fixed by various states, the local governments can actually borrow the money cheaper than Washington because the buyer of their bonds obtains an investment free of federal taxes.

Of course the Mayors merely shrug their shoulders when it is suggested that the Washington treasury is empty too. That is no concern of theirs. But if Washington will continue its free and easy money the problems of the Mayors will be much simplified. And within that narrow and selfish compass one may file the ambitions and high sounding report of the Conference of Mayors.

But behind the juggling scenery that is shifted from desert to garden as occasion demands in our great political game there is the eternal clash concerning the honesty or dishonesty of relief, whether it shall be continued in the future as in the past largely for its political advantages or whether we shall actually return to the same principles we abandoned six years ago.

One of those principles is that no one is competent to operate relief in comparison to the local authorities. And the next is that the local liability to immediately provide a substantial share of the relief is the only known way of securing efficiency even from the local authorities.

ENGLAND SPEAKS OF NEUTRALITY

We hope that every American has read each separate word in the recent agreement made by England with Japan.

For England knows what neutrality is. And when her interests are involved she speaks and acts neutrally, the honest sort of straightforward neutrality that is in keeping with the derivation of the word.

England states to Japan that she "fully recognizes the actual situation in China" and notes "that as long as that state of affairs continues to exist" the Japs "have special requirements" in the matter of "their own security" which means winning the war. Then the English government directly, flatly and completely, agrees to neutrality in this manner:

"His Majesty's government have no intention of countenancing any acts or measures prejudicial to the attainment of the above-mentioned objects by the Japanese forces and they will take this opportunity to confirm their policy in this respect by making it plain to British authorities and British nationals in China that they should refrain from such acts and measures."

We are not blaming England for wanting America to be unneutral in European wars any more than we would criticize China for wishing England to be unneutral in Asia.

But we are criticizing those among us who have authority and yet are so unversed with the affairs of men and of nations as to willingly throw their government into the very position that England is too smart to occupy in the Orient.

BUT THAT WOULD BE AWFUL!

We have been training nearly 3 million men for certain useful activities in the CCC.

This is one of the excellent inventions of the present administration. It was needed, sensibly organized and efficiently and practically handled. But it has missed one good purpose. It failed to provide regular military training on a program that had plenty of vacancies for something of that sort.

In case of war the young men who went to the CCC camps will be among those first called to the colors. But they will come without training when they might easily have been trained. They were't trained because socialism holds an important hand in our government even as it frightens our legislators at Madison from putting military training upon the required subjects at the university.

In this respect we still live in the same atmosphere as when we first heard about Jack and the Beanstalk. We are told that if the boys at the University had to learn how to drill and handle a gun they would come out bellowing brutes ready to bite the first one they could isolate.

So we spend our hundreds of millions even as the air is full of war threats but we couldn't possibly be efficient enough to have military training even for two or three hours a week so as to be prepared as against menacing possibilities.

Little wonder that when Socialism gets complete control of a government it is invariably followed by revolution, destruction and the encouragement of any form of government that is its opposite.

MARS WAS FRIENDLY ENOUGH

It is something to expect a visit for a long time and to know that it has passed off without friction or slip-up.

When the earth turned friendly eyes to Mars and the two planets embraced at a distance of 36 million miles as required by the hygienic rules of the universe, it was like a meeting of brothers who hadn't seen each other for some time. At least the theory is that Mars and the earth are both children of the sun flung off into space when some relative of their parent came so close in manifestation of affection that a cosmic disturbance resulted.

Thus Mars and the earth are actually twins and made of the same stuff. Yet Mars has never been as vigorous as our own planet. She has not held her course as well and sometimes seems to be affected with anemia.

Those great doctors of the universe called astronomers say that Mars has something like senile decay, an aging process on the order of hardening of the arteries. As a result she seems to be inclined toward deserts. The doctors sadly shake their heads and point to the thin Mars atmosphere and then to her ruddy color and say the oxygen has gone into the rocks instead of remaining available for human lungs. And as we sigh and shake our heads at Mars' misfortune and speculate upon the adolescent misbehavior that may have occasioned this enfeebled condition the doctors of the universe turn upon us and say with a Biblical rumble: "Mars today; tomorrow you."

Alas, there is no appeal from these venerable doctors. And emphatically do they declare that the earth is doomed to die exactly as Mars is dying for its oxygen will be dissipated in the rusting processes of its rocks and otherwise.

And so everything receives two dooms, the doom to live and the doom to die. Animals and plants live but shortly, and die. Nations last longer, but die. And even planets that exist for eons must eventually gasp and expire.

But though man's life be short it is tough and the effort to survive is divine. That is why telescopes were turned toward Mars. And some day when they are built big and powerful enough we shall ascertain definitely whether the life that was there before the water vapor and oxygen were transformed was able to survive the transformation.

And if we determine that life does exist in another planet we will welligh determine too that it exists in those distant galaxies from whence we obtain only transmissions of light that take thousands of years to arrive here even traveling at the rate of 186,000 miles per second.

And when man shall have discovered and corroborated this marvelous phenomenon, this peek into futurity, he will sit himself down with a rare satisfaction. He will realize for sure that he is not alone. And he will shed some of his inferiority complex for man hates few things more than he does loneliness.

A Verse for Today

By Anne Campbell

SYMPHONY UNDER THE STARS

Here sits a man who drives a truck all day,
Next to a girl whose hands are rough with toil.
Beyond them an old man, fresh from the soil
He lately weeded, finds the music gay.

A pretty girl draws close to a tall lad.
A baby nestles in its mother's arms.
All ages and all classes breathe the charms
Of varied melodies, triumphant, sad.

The moon moves furmly in the heavens now.
And sheds beneficence upon the night.
It filters with a soft and dancing light
Through the green lace of every willow bough.

Over the crowd, hushed after its release
From aching toil, there falls expectantly
The patient murmur of the willow tree,
And Music's answer, breathing hope and peace.

TELEVISION'S WORRIES

The Radio Manufacturers association, convened at Chicago, looks sourly on the commercial future of television. And well it may. Though the images sent and received are acceptable, a transmitter has a range of only fifty or sixty miles even when mounted on top of the Empire State or Chrysler building. To blanket the country with visual entertainment through a national hook-up involves the erection of perhaps several hundred stations, each costing from $100,000 to $500,000. Interconnection can be achieved by short-wave radio, but engineers prefer the coaxial cable, which costs about $5,000 a mile, with at least 80,000 miles needed.

Assuming that some inexpensive way of hooking up stations will ultimately be evolved, there still remains the obstacle of studio costs. The worst film play that the public will tolerate costs about $1,000 a minute in screen-time.

DALE HARRISON'S In Old New York

New York—You read what Governor Luren D. Dickinson said the other day about the dangerous young women face at "high life" social functions in this wicked city of New York.

It so happens, and quite by accident, that I have been privileged to observe the social conditions which Gov. Dickinson laments, and I think he has a wrong slant. The 50-year-old governor, you remember, went to Albany and then came to New York City last month to attend the Governors' Conference and its attendant social functions. The President of the United States himself was one of the prominent persons who were hosts to the Governor. Governor Dickinson remarked that no liquor was served by the President, but added that "it probably could have been had, if requested."

It isn't true, if you want my opinion, that when young women attend "high life" social functions in New York that they stand, as Gov. Dickinson remarked, "in dangerous proximity to a hellish brink." It isn't true, as the governor seems to suspect, that some of the dashing gentlemen with fine and fancy manners who attend such functions are actually blackguards bent upon luring ladies into iniquitous pursuits.

In case you missed the aged executive's blast against our fair name, let me recall one or two of his remarks.

"Any mother," he said, "who permits her girl to attend such functions should demand ironclad protection." He spoke of a young married man with a wife and children at home. In his indignation the governor held up his hands in horror at the thought of "this little bundle of unsullied purity . . . tripping through the sin-cursed haunts of that great city with a young married man."

The governor said at one of these "high life" functions he saw a young lady who seemed to be fascinated by a man in splendid uniform, and he hazarded the suggestion that the man might easily have been a procurer. This was at a social function held in a famous hotel with the various governors, their families and their friends as guests; yet Gov. Dickinson said: "What a setting for a libertine!"

Now, Governor, let's count ten and start all over. I'm a Michigan boy. I've attended "high life" social functions in your Detroit, your Grand Rapids and at your numerous summer resorts. I think they were just as much "settings for libertines" as the banquet hall of one of New York's most famous—and most conservative—hotels. Of course, I might not recognize a libertine if I saw one, but my recollection is that there were many of them attending the Saturday night dances of any small Michigan community as there were at the banquet tendered you and the other governors of these United States on Park Avenue, New York.

I do not say, Mr. Governor, that I know more about the dangers that beset young ladies in this world than you. My outstanding observation on the subject is that even the dumbest young ladies are twice as smart as the brightest young men. Any young woman old enough to attend a banquet for governors is old enough to move about New York without a police escort. I am far more inclined to worry about the young men who from time unremembered have been twisted around the women folks' little fingers.

New York is no Enchanted City of sweetness and light, but when you consider there are seven million souls here, all struggling with fairly good humor to make livings and have a wee bit of happiness along the way, we do about as well as any other place. There is about the usual amount of holding hands and kissing in the usual way in Michigan. It seems like young folks will make love no matter how much we may abhor it. You can see them on Fifth Avenue buses, on park benches and in the theatres—all oblivious to the thousands of people around them. I don't think we should be too surprised to see them having a good time at a Governors' Banquet.

Looking Backward

10 YEARS AGO
Monday, July 29, 1929

George J. Jansen, a veteran rural mail carrier out of Little Chute, Wis., died, Richard, were at their home near Little Chute, suffering from severe bruises received when they were knocked down by a bull on the Jansen farm that morning.

Forrest O'Brien and Dale "Red" Jackson, champion endurance fliers, that day were nearing the 400-hour mark aloft in the St. Louis Robin.

Stock prices sank rapidly in a dull session on the New York Stock exchange that day. Many issues dropped from $3 to $12 a share.

25 YEARS AGO
Monday, Aug. 3, 1914

A declaration of war was sent by the German ambassador in the name of his government to the Russian minister of foreign affairs at 7:30 Saturday night. A Belgium newspaper said 20,000 German troops crossed the French frontier, encountering French forces, and were repulsed with heavy losses.

The invasion of Russia by German troops had begun. The first naval battle of the war was fought by German and Russian fleets off Aland islands, resulting in the defeat of the Russians. A telephone dispatch from Brussels to the Reuters agency reported that Germany had declared war on France.

Fire of unknown origin, starting under the old grandstand at the state fair grounds in Milwaukee Sunday night, destroyed 10 buildings and the grandstand, causing a loss estimated at $87,000.

Probably $5,000 a minute is the average for a good screen play. But the most that a national hook-up now costs the advertiser is about $600 a minute, which leaves a satisfactory profit for the broadcasting company. Television studio costs will have to be brought down to about $300 a minute if ordinary broadcasting is any criterion. How that miracle is to be performed in the face of Hollywood's long experience and the public's demand for high-priced action and elaborate stage settings, no economic soothsayer will venture to predict.

British experience indicates that the public is not satisfied with mere sketches. It wants full-length plays—a new one every twenty-four hours if possible. And this means a production cost of $300,000 a day. The gross business of the two leading sound-broadcasting companies amounts only to about $90,000,000 a year, which is barely enough to produce 300-hour-long television plays on a Hollywood scale, with nothing allowed for research costs, huge investments in electrical equipment, heavy expenditures for maintenance and technical operation. Hollywood never had to reckon with anything like the productivity that television will demand from authors, actors, engineers, set designers, property men, make-up experts, stage directors and costumers.

No radio manufacturer now believes that the sale of sets alone can pay the cost of television. Nor does he expect much from the turnover in tubes, though a television now has about twenty. It is the advertiser who must pay. But will he? And can he? The present cautious broadcasting of only two television program-hours a week will not answer definitely. Rather will it reveal how strong is the public demand for television and hence the potentialities for advertising. It is the established system of providing entertainment at the expense of "sponsors" that is actually being tested—not television itself.—New York Times.

A Bystander In Washington

BY PRESTON GROVER

Washington—At this point we might as well confess that we have lost our principal battle of the season and that is to have Representative Tinkham, Congress' most famous big game hunter, hunt lions in America.

He is forever going off to Africa to shoot lions. It is conceded at once that very superior lions grow in Africa, perhaps better than the American breed, but a home product should not be snuffed out.

Senator Bone of Washington broached the subject. He had been reading statistics. He was surprised that in Pennsylvania there were thousands and thousands of deer in spite of its being a densely populated eastern seaboard state with an eager quota of hunters. He decided it was largely the lack of mountain lions that permitted the state to preserve the deer for the fall hunting season.

Out in the Olympic Peninsula, which is a sizeable stripe of territory along Puget Sound in Washington, there are also thousands of deer. But also there are hundreds of mountain lions, each of which knows off 50 to 200 deer during the year. It does seem an awful waste, both economic and statistical, for mountain lions to bat down so many fine venison steaks.

Legislative Lion Hunt

Senator Bone, being of a legislative mind and no lion hunter, suggested that the biological survey ought to shove a band of professional lion hunters into the Olympic forest and track the rascals down. Perhaps it was lack of cooperation that failed to bring us, for Senator Bone didn't offer to help much when we suggested that Representative Tinkham would do very well.

He is truly a first rate big game hunter. He holds an award of some sort for having killed six leopards one day, which is practically the top in leopard killing. He also has killed lions, many of them. He even brought down an elephant. He showed us a picture of it.

But he would not get excited about hunting mountain lions. We argued that Theodore Roosevelt, also a famous lion hunter, had considered mountain lion hunting a sport and also good politics. That was an argument for Tinkham, that political business. The Republican colony he represents in Massachusetts elects him to the House without his even campaigning. Several times he has been in Africa hunting lions at election time.

As to the business of hunting lions in America, he said it was not organized on the handsome scale of the African hunt. Who ever heard of a safari trucking out of an outlying post like Seattle to hunt lions in the deep interior of a spruce forest with the automobiles roaring along beside you and newspaper photographers waiting for you at every lion's den?

Mountain lions are a fair enough size, ranging in length between eight and eleven feet from tip to tip, including the assembly. We never heard of one who would charge the camera to make good news reels. And it doesn't take such a big gun to kill them. We have read that good African hunters use a 450 express, which shoots a bullet the size of a football. Mountain lions will settle for less.

Moreover, for $50 a good woodsman will rope one of them single handed and turn him over to a zoo alive and well. We know hunters, Tom Koski, out in Salmon City, Idaho, whose dogs once chased a mountain lion into a cave. Koski went in with a pistol and brought him out. He thought it was worth the risk. He got a $15 dollar bounty for it. And besides, the dogs would have been disappointed.

Nevertheless we thought Representative Tinkham might take a flinger at it this autumn. But when we put it up to him, he just said no.

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—All governors enjoy a vast and variegated correspondence with their constituents. Probably Wisconsin's is getting more, and more unusual letters from folks everywhere because of his thoroughly democratic personality and popular appeal.

Of the hundreds which pour over his secretaries' desks every week, there are many fascinating documents. Among the best lately has been the epistolary advice coming from a man behind the bars of the Waupun state prison. It is worth quoting here because of its close resemblance to the suggestions which regular Republican politicians of experience and brains have been saying lately. Consider this suggestion to the governor:

"I don't suppose there are 10,000 people in the state who know why you are trying to raise money by increasing taxes. The majority, even Republicans, cannot understand they thought that you were going to reduce taxes—not raise them."

Heil's correspondent advised more publicity from the administration to acquaint the people with his aims, "which have been in doubt."

ACUTE OBSERVER

Considering that the author of the letters of advice is in Waupun prison, and presumably not in contact with the public, Republican politicians will recognize the shrewdness of this observation:

"They should have completed their business long ago. Yet, the most important part of your program lies uncompleted and in a state of doubtful reception. This is no fault of yours; however, you receive much censor nevertheless."

It is quite obvious that forceful leadership is lacking in the senate, a condition no fault of yours. You can, however, alleviate mistakes made by the senate by your presence more frequently."

Heil's unsolicited advisor also makes a solid suggestion when he points out that in frequent instances the administration gives few reasons why some of its meritorious legislation should pass, while the opposition uncloses plenty of reasons against it. More publicity is necessary on the part of the administration, and Heil is told that "you are too good a salesman to overlook it."

Then ponder the remarkable grasp of legislative and political reality which is exhibited by this suggestion to the governor:

"There are a few senators whom it would pay you to have private chats with from time to time. Keep a box of bottles in your top drawer of a bottle of Scotch for each senator. Most of them are Scotchmen. Such men as Yindra, McDermid, Rush, and even Shearer on your side will be helpful now and then."

The letter ends with an apology for using both sides of the stationery. "Heil economy has suddenly struck this place, infecting even the inmates," he finishes.

It is within the province of this column to say so. It may be said that the letter contains more sound political advice than Heil has been getting from his paid advisors lately.

Note: The author of the letter is a former professional writer; his trouble, according to reports, is that he was accustomed to writing

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

Twenty-five years ago the World war was starting, and here we are today wishing the world would lay down its arms and consider making peace. It's certainly been a much longer war than we expected.

Looking around at the situation this Monday morning, we find more proof than ever that the human race is a glutton for punishment. That it hasn't any intelligence worth boasting about and that it's only happy when it's feeling miserable.

That the whole business is psychopathic is proved by the fact some of the leading workers for a new war were soldiers in the old one and saw it all at close range. You just can't figure a thing like that out.

Well, congress is certainly slashing that new spending program. There seems to be a definite revolt at last against the "what's-another-few-billion-to-us" school of government operation. I wouldn't be surprised if Mr. Roosevelt had had to ask congress to provide an appropriation to find out whatever became of his bill for appropriations. They're passing every bill except the ones the president asked for down there. It used to be just the other way around. For six or seven years congress has been passing every bill except the ones congress liked.

Franklin spent a trying Sunday studying the Hatch bill and wondering whether to sign it or not. The trouble about this bill is that he may lay an egg, no matter whether he signs it or vetoes it.

HEALTHY STOMACH

Contrary to the popular notion the stomach is not a hollow, empty structure (between meals) which will hold a quart or so when filled to capacity. It is rather a wide pipe in the alimentary canal, and when no food or liquid is passing through the stomach walls are firmly in apposition, so that there is no yawning space not filled with food, water, air, gas or whatever has been left lying about. Nor has the stomach that conventional saddle shape the old time books, charts or manikins depicted. It is more the shape of a cow horn with the wide part at the top, the apex or tip of the horn toward the right.

The fasting stomach has rhythmic variations in tone at the rate of three a minute, approximately, then at irregular intervals a series of more powerful contractions occur, these contractions lasting perhaps 30 seconds, and producing the sensation of hunger, the pangs or pains of hunger, not just appetite or desire for food.

When food enters the stomach it does not, therefore, drop into a cavern or tank with a resounding clunk, in successive gulps or morsels as swallowed. As the bolus or morsel arrives at the entrance to the stomach (cardia) some five seconds after swallowing, it is momentarily arrested by the tightly pursed sphincter or mouth of the stomach, which presently relaxes somewhat, permitting the bolus to pass slowly thru.

When the bolus has been passed thru the cardia or gateway to the stomach (called cardia because it is the portion of the stomach nearest the heart)—irritation of this portion by excessive acidity produces the symptom called "heartburn" it still remains closely grasped by the stomach, along with other food, liquid or gas already present, thru-out the churning process of digestion. Successive peristaltic contractions squeeze the bolus along toward the lower gateway or outlet (pylorus) of the stomach, but the pyloric sphincter (purse string) muscle keeps the opening closed until the food in the stomach has been well churned and converted into a thin liquid mass called chyme. The food may be churned back and forth in the stomach many times before it becomes chyme. Then the pylorus relaxes enough, at intervals, under pressure of the stomach contractions, to permit portions of the chyme to pass on into the duodenum. At no time during digestion is any large volume of chyme so ejected from the stomach—just a small amount at a time, and its place in the stomach is immediately taken up by other food not yet quite ready. Probably the normal acidity (hydrochloric acid) of the gastric juice aids in opening the pylorus in that the chyme may pass into the duodenum; and probably this acidity in the duodenum helps to close and keep closed the pylorus until the acidity is neutralized by the alkalinity of the pancreatic juice and bile.

This will be sufficient physiology to indicate the importance of tone, the elasticity, resilience, vigor of involuntary muscle in the wall of stomach, duodenum and entire length of the alimentary canal.

Defendants File Answers in State Milk Price Cases

Appleton and Kaukauna Farmers Deny Selling Insanitary Product

Although the state department of agriculture and markets has not filed its complaints in municipal court in the actions charging William Rohan, Kaukauna, and Walter Klitzke, route 1, Appleton, with violation of the state milk price fixing law, the defendants have filed their answers.

Summons and complaints were served on the defendants recently. In addition to the milk price violation, both men are charged with selling unsanitary raw milk and with doing business without a license. The complaint against Klitzke alleged he sold milk from a quarantined herd which had reacted to Bangs disease and had not been retested.

Rohan in his answer filed in municipal court this morning admits being technically engaged in business as a dealer and that he sold milk below the price in the Appleton regulated market but "denies the right of the state or any other instrumentality of the government to dictate the price of a producing farmer's goods sold on his farm" and alleges that "such price fixing legislation is arbitrarily discriminatory and is class legislation and the legislation is a violation of the state and United States constitution."

The Kaukauna farmer also denies selling unsanitary milk and asks that the plaintiff be put to proof. Klitzke in his answer filed in municipal court denies he is a dealer under the state law in a regulated market, denies he is selling from a quarantined herd or from insanitary premises in an unsanitary manner, denies any acts which threaten the stability of the market or prices to the producers supplying the market, and denies his acts are a danger to the public health.

He claims he is selling his product as an ordinary farmer and that the state is attempting to force him to sell at a loss through channels enabling other certain dealers to make and control prices. He says in his answer that the state is attempting to make him sell his milk to dealers at approximately half the prices he now receives.

Klitzke is selling milk at his farm for 25 cents per gallon, while Rohan has been selling milk at his farm at 5 cents per quart.

Be A Careful Driver

SONGS TAKE SPOTLIGHT AT CITY EMPLOYEES' PICNIC SATURDAY

Song, the last of the "wine, women and song" was first at the picnic. The "orchestra," a trombone, accordion and drums, was busy all day leading the way for the "troops," baritone, and basses, some of whom are shown in the picture at the right. Another popular song spot was a battered old piano played by former Alderman Bob DeLand.

Songs Fill the Air as City Employees Picnic at Stroebe's

BY E. L. BISELX

Everyone had a good time Saturday at the annual city employees picnic, the event that once each year brings together city officers, bridgekeepers, office workers, street department employees and others to eat, drink and play softball.

Wine and wives were conspicuous by their absence but songs were there and almost everyone who came to the party had a chance to try out his tenor, baritone or bass before the sun set on one of the happiest picnics ever held at Stroebe's Island.

A trombone, an accordion and a drum conveniently near that place where the beer was served under

Lighthouse Service

Bill Has House O.K.

Washington—(P)—The house passed and sent to the senate today a bill to perfect the consolidation of the lighthouse service and the coast guard, effective July 1 under the president's reorganization order.

The bill would provide for the induction into the military establishment of the coast guard professional and technical employees of the lighthouse service, and the discontinuance of further appointment of civilian employees. All future vacancies would be filled from the military personnel.

Personnel transferred to the military establishment would be given rank commensurate with their duties, and made "extra numbers" in their grade to prevent interference with promotion in the regular coast guard.

DEADLINE FOR CLAIMS

Hayward, Wis.—(P)—Claims for a share in the $1,000 reward offered by the Sawyer county board for the capture of Ray Olson must be filed before tomorrow, it was announced by County Clerk Adolph Sandstrom. Olson, slayer of two deputy sheriffs, was shot down after a 2-week manhunt in the Chippewa flowage area.

It Is Said--

The arguments about who was to blame for the delay in turning on the lights at Spencer field last night were flying thick and fast in city hall this morning. As the story goes, (from both sides) the Moose and the Y.M.C.A. played the preliminary softball game last night before Appleton city officials tangled with Fond du Lac. Before the game was under way it got dark and no one would turn the lights on. So when the lights finally were turned on at 8 o'clock there wasn't enough time to finish by 8:15, the scheduled time for the officials' game, and the fray ended 5-11 in the fifth inning. The teams involved, the officials and the crowd all have different stories and everyone thinks his is the right one.

Time to Start Listing Seymour Fair Entries

A suggestion that farmers begin thinking about their entries for the Outagamie county fair at Seymour Aug. 17-20 was made today by J. F. Magnus, county agricultural agent.

Entry day will be Aug. 17. Magnus said, and the next day will be feature day, with a horse-pulling contest as one of the events. Entries will be judged Friday and Saturday, Aug. 18 and 19.

Mrs. Merrill Hopkins, 420 W. Summer street, was admitted as a patient Sunday to St. Elizabeth hospital.

the shade of the trees provided the inspiration and a battered old piano with former Alderman Bob DeLand at the keyboard led the way in another spot.

Carl J. Becker's baritone, Joseph Kov' tenor and Alderman Delain's bass really won out in the end for these three have the "pipes" among the city family. Every song from "when to now" was served up by the impromptu trios, quartets and choruses.

Incidentally, the city fathers softball team annexed the softball game, 13 to 7, even in the face of the "commercial" used by the street department in a last-minute rally.

The game was the feature of the afternoon and even though the afternoon was hot and the beer stand was close by, many of the players wished they had set the innings at three instead of seven.

Alderman Brautigan pitched for the street department but his colleagues at bat got to him for five runs in the first inning and then Lawrence Reinke took over the hurling job. The officials scored four runs in the fourth inning, five in the fifth and one in the sixth.

The department, facing Alderman Bogan on the mound, didn't score until the fourth inning when Bramer and Landrey came home. A run in the fifth, another in the sixth and three scored in the seventh inning ended the ball game.

The audience, seated on benches in the shade, had more fun watching the game than the players did. Anyway, most of the boys who watched the game are getting a little too old for softball which they believe should be played by the "youngsters."

A sheephead game drew the attention of four or five officials who even missed the ball game keeping track of their queens and jacks. Lawrence Reinke, Gene Harris and Frank Bachmann get the credit for making the picnic a success from the standpoint of food of which there was a great plenty always ready at the right time.

The department was empowered to examine "any irregularities" and all "phases of operating cost and functions," for the purpose of effecting the elimination of unnecessary state functions, avoiding efficiency.

Neenah Fisherman Lands Big Muskie In Lake Winnebago

Neenah — Evidence that there are muskellunge in Lake Winnebago and that they can be caught was displayed Saturday by Elmer Parrott, 111 Edna street, Neenah, who hooked a muskie 40½ inches long and weighing 14½ pounds at about 4:30 Saturday afternoon on Stephen's bar in Lake Winnebago, about three miles off Adela Beach.

Lake Winnebago fishermen have always contended that there were muskellunge in the "big lake," but the game fish haven't been very susceptible to their lures.

Parrott said he didn't know the fish was a muskie, not having caught one before. When he and his brother-in-law, Emil Parrott, with whom he was fishing, returned to shore, a fisherman informed him that what Parrott thought was a pickerel was a large muskie. The lack of scales on the sides of the head toward the body was the proof.

Parrott caught the muskie on a small pickerel hook, using four nightcrawlers and a June bug. The fish put up a desperate fight. The hook and leader were damaged badly.

Defer Setting of Surplus Milk Price

In Milwaukee Area

Madison — (P) — Director Ralph M. Ammon said today the department of agriculture and markets had deferred temporarily announcement of a price to be paid for surplus milk in the Milwaukee market.

In an order issued late Saturday the department raised the retail price of fluid milk in Milwaukee from 10 to 11 cents a quart, giving producers an increase of from $2.10 to $2.40 a hundredweight.

The department's advisory board recommended the boost because of drought conditions, Ammon said. The increase will become effective tomorrow.

Under instructions from the advisory board, Ammon and L. G. Kuenning, head of the dairy division, conferred over the weekend to fix a price of surplus.

"We decided," Ammon said, "to hold up an order on surplus in Milwaukee until after we had heard from farmers in the Waukesha district, who are scheduled to meet today."

Ammon said Fred M. Wylie would represent the department at the Waukesha hearing. The director planned to go to Sheboygan.

Want Farmers to Market Smaller And Leaner Pigs

Washington — (P) — Administration officials are seeking some way to encourage farmers to market smaller and leaner hogs this season. They want to relieve an edible fat surplus that has forced prices of lard and cottonseed products to the lowest level in years.

With farmers producing one of the largest big crops in recent years, officials said the lard surplus, aggravated by a sharp decline in exports, would become much larger if the animals are fed to heavy weights before marketing.

Despite a crop in hog prices of from an average of about $5.56 to $6.26 a hundred pounds in the past 12 months, farmers still are able to feed the meat animals and make a profit, because of an abundance of feed supplies available at low prices.

Officials said that as long as a profit can be made, feeders will tend to market hogs at heavy weights.

Hollywood — Wonder if Luise

Rainer will ever return to Hollywood? Maybe you don't care. That's my attitude and we've plenty of co-thinkers. Miss Rainer's last few pictures were so innocuous, and the lady was so foolish in a number of ways, that in a way of us reached the point where we didn't care when she went away to London. Some of us thought London wasn't far enough.

But the fact remains, the lady is an actress. After all, stupid as Hollywood has been in distributing Academy performance awards, La Rainer was given two statuettes, and even Hollywood couldn't be that far wrong. She deserved at least one of them.

Funny about her brief career here. When she first graced our screen, everyone agreed she was different, that she was an artist. Ere she departed, the very mannerisms and voice inflections that won her acclaim were criticized as affectations. That was unfair. She is no more affected than Betty Davis. Betty's brilliance is unquestioned, nevertheless—her queer little tilt of the head and her sidelong stares are as familiar as the chimneys of N. B. C. If Miss Rainer's mannerisms are affectations, the same must be true of Miss Davis.

From a purely psychological point of view, I'd like to see Luise return for a new Hollywood fling. Next time, she might be more commonsensical about her career affairs. In that event, her next employer, less annoyed by temperamental outbursts, would perhaps be more careful in choosing her vehicles. The combination of possibilities could easily restore the little Rainer to her former position.

CUFF NOTES: The widow of Casey Jones threatens trouble for Paramount if the film of her husband's life isn't to her liking. The Bud Lessers (producer Sol's son) are October storking. What's this—Franchot Tone beaming Loretta Young (Joan's pal) to night spots? Rumor is that Orson Welles took that four-way movie contract to get money to produce his own play, "Five Kings" which was without Broadway takers. Zornia will give an autumn film for Goldwin and will do a Rogers & Hart musical on Broadway.

"We may find that different methods are appropriate in different cases but the house may rest assured that this government places utmost importance upon collaboration where collaboration is possible and desired with the United States and that we never fail to keep that government informed of all that we are doing or are about to do."

Refers to Parleys

This statement followed his comment regarding the British-French-Soviet pact negotiations.

The prime minister said all three nations were anxious "not to appear to be desirous of encroaching upon the independence of other states."

"If we do not agree with the Soviet government on a definition of indirect aggression it is because the formula that the Russian government favors appears to carry this precise significance," he declared.

Chamberlain said Soviet Premier Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov had told the British and French negotiators that if military conversations were begun "political difficulties should not prove insuperable."

Chamberlain, touching on the European situation in general, concluded:

Dangerous Situation

"One must admit that a situation in which the accumulation of weapons of war is going on on so many sides and at such a pace is one which can not but be regarded with anxiety."

"It is difficult to see what solution of this problem can be unless it is to be resolved by war itself."

"Unhappily, bad feelings between nations is fomented daily by poisonous propaganda in the press and by other means."

"I can not help feeling that if only we halt this war of words and

At two mass meetings Japanese speakers accused Britain of failing to live up to the agreement which set the stage for the Tokyo talks and recognized Japan's "special requirements" in China.

The demonstrations marched from the mass meetings to the embassy but were kept at a distance from the embassy gates.

In Tientsin the Japanese army spokesman declared there was no danger of the anti-British movement gaining an anti-American tinge because of the United States abrogation of her 1911 trade treaty with Japan.

St. Joseph's to Observe Feast Of Portiuncula

BEGINNING at noon Tuesday and continuing through Wednesday evening, St. Joseph's church will celebrate the feast of Portiuncula. Celebration only in churches presided over by the Franciscan order or those having been granted the special privilege of celebrating it, the feast takes its name from the shrine in Assisi where St. Francis used to pray and meditate. It commemorates the granting of the first plenary indulgence by Pope Honorius III at the petition of St. Francis.

A plenary indulgence may be gained by Catholics who, having fulfilled the requirements of confession and communion, visit the church and recite prescribed prayers between Tuesday noon and Wednesday evening. The indulgence can be gained each time the church is visited and the prayers are said, and it is applicable to the souls in purgatory.

The feast will close with devotions at 7:30 Wednesday night at the church. Confessions for the feast will be heard at 2:30 Tuesday afternoon and 7:30 in the evening.

Christian Mothers society of St. Theresa church will meet at 7:30 Tuesday evening at the parish hall. Hostesses will be Mrs. A. P. Borklund and Mrs. Harvey Kithner.

Mt. Olive Ladies Aid society will have an outing Wednesday at the Alford Foster cottage on Lake Winnebago. Chartered bus will leave the church at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and the women will spend the rest of the day at the lake.

The hostess committee includes Mrs. R. H. Bastian, chairman; Mrs. Lester Bailey, Mrs. Louis Bleick, Mrs. Lena Bleick, Mrs. Bosser, Mrs. H. Bruggeman, Mrs. A. Brockhoff, Mrs. H. Christiansen, Mrs. Alex C. Benz, Mrs. R. C. Ballstad, Mrs. George Cavert, Mrs. Matt Doerfler, Mrs. Lloyd Doerfler, Mrs. Ed Draeger and Mrs. H. Fulcer.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Mumme, advisers for Pilgrim Fellowship of First Congregational church, attended the wiener and marshmallow roast which the young people held last evening at Alicia park. Ten members attended. Games were played after the supper and an informal discussion on Green Lake was led by James Pirie and Miss Beverly Olson. Tentative plans were made for a bike hike or swimming party in August.

Women's Missionary society of Trinity English Lutheran church will meet at 7:30 Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. George Johnson, River drive. Mrs. George Kuehnelt will present the study topic.

Two Women Killed in Car-Train Collision

New Buffalo, Mich. —(AP)—Two young women were killed and two others hurt in a critically serious crash today night when a Michigan Central freight train hit their automobile a mile north of the Indiana-Michigan line.

The dead: Miss Christine Behner, 23, of New Buffalo, and Miss Rose Tomandi, 26, of Medford, Wis., who was working at a resort near there.

Run in Parallel

Vancouver, Wash. —(AP)—Joe Louis either has to make his fight last longer or Vancouver residents have to refrain from turning in alarms during broadcasts of championship bouts.

When Louis fought Jack Roper, Vancouver firemen settled back to listen and a lumber yard blaze started. Before they got back Roper was through.

The flame tamers were waiting for the opening gun of the recent Louis-Tony Galento fight when the alarm buzzed and they siren away from the station. When the fire was out, so was Galento.

82 DEGREES BELOW ZERO

Miami, Fla. —(AP)—The temperature reached 90 degrees in Miami recently, but only 11 miles away it was 83 below zero.

Citizens couldn't enjoy the Arctic temperature, however, because the distance was vertical. The reading was radiated to earth by an automatic device on a balloon released by the weather bureau.

Ernest Carson, meteorologist, said the balloon burst at 17 1/2 miles altitude, where it was considerably warmer — only 64 degrees below zero.

Tampa, Fla. —(AP)—A biscuit baked by her father at Pensacola in 1862 is a prized possession of Mrs. L. J. Griffith.

Blackwell said a number of demonstrators apparently came in from Detroit.

Robert Chamberlain, assistant safety director who directed police, said a state "of riot and civil commotion existed" near the plant and ordered the area cleared for a quarter of a mile.

Chamberlain said he saw no need for calling national guard troops.

Blackwell said demonstrators wore steel army helmets and heavy paper mache helmets.

Before reserves joined the original detail of police, officers greatly outnumbered, were forced to take cover with drawn guns behind a steel fence, Blackwell added.

PICKETS REINFORCED

Detroit —(AP)—Picket lines were reinforced today by the CIO United Automobile Workers at General Motors plants where skilled workers are on strike as the American Federation of Labor said its members would return to construction jobs at those factories.

The only disorder reported here as work began this morning, however, was a brief skirmish at the gates of Fisher Body company's plant No. 37 which resulted in two arrests. Police quickly restored order after a worker, angered by the remoteness of a picket, charged the man and was set upon by other pickets.

It was not learned immediately how many of the 1,200 A.F. of L. building trades workers employed by contractors on work at G.M. plants reported for work. They have been idle since the U.A.W.-CIO called the strike July 5.

Their spokesmen said they have been prevented from working by pickets: the CIO denying this, insisted the building tradesmen had not worked because they were in sympathy with the strike.

The strike, to enforce demands for a contract for skilled workers, was aimed at preparations for 1940 model automobiles.

Approximately 7,000 workers in 12 General Motors plants have been affected by the strike.

Representatives of the corporation and the union who have been meeting with James F. Dewey, federal labor conciliator, were reported deadlocked over the U.A.W.-CIO demand for wage increases for tool and die workers, engineers and maintenance men.

Cut Interest Rate For FHA Mortgages

Washington —(AP)—Families planning to borrow money for new homes on government-insured mortgages will get a lower interest rate beginning tomorrow.

Officials announced last night that the maximum rate on FHA-insured mortgages for small homes would be cut from 5 per cent to 4 1/2 per cent, and that the maximum rate on large-scale rental projects would be reduced from 4 1/2 to 4 per cent. It does not apply to mortgages already insured.

AUTHOR STRICKEN

Danbury, Conn. —(AP)—Rex Stout, author of the Nero Wolfe mystery stories, underwent an appendectomy today at the Danbury hospital after a few hours after he was stricken with abdominal pains at his Brewster, N. Y. home. Attendants reported his condition as "good."

Los Angeles has started giving police tags to motorists moving too slowly on Wilshire boulevard, a main traffic artery.

Bridges May be Called As Government Witness

San Francisco —(AP)—Government lawyers claimed an apparent victory today in the fight over whether Harry Bridges should be called as a government witness when his deportation hearing is resumed Wednesday after a four-day recess.

The west coast CIO chief's lawyers have been anxious to call him as his own star witness, near the close of the hearing several weeks from now.

However, James M. Landis, dean of the Harvard university law school and special trial examiner for the labor department, said today that "unless the defense interposes new objections, Mr. Bridges can be put on the stand Wednesday."

Bridges is accused of belonging to a group advocating the violent overthrow of the government, and on that basis, of being deportable to his native Australia.

Several Types of Poisonous Plants Can be Found in State

BY CLARA HUSSONG

Besides poison ivy and poison sumach there are a number of plants found in the state which are mildly poisonous to the touch to certain people. In most cases the irritation is not severe and lasts only a few days and, for the most part, there are only a few of us who are susceptible to the poisonous properties of these plants.

In "Poisonous Plants" of the United States (Macmillan) the author, Walter Conrad Muenscher, lists and describes plants which by chemical analysis have been found to contain toxic substances. All plants whose foliage, roots, fruits or other parts, are poisonous when eaten by man or beast are also included.

Many times a plant is poisonous only at a certain stage of its growth, or under certain circumstances, a point which the author gives in detail.

Hussong

Nearly everyone is familiar with our most common offender, poison ivy. Its three leaflets are its warning signal. It may grow in an upright, trailing or climbing manner. In summer mature plants bear greenish-yellow flowers which are soon replaced by pale green or grayish berries. All parts of the plant contain the poisonous oil which causes the severe skin poisoning to which at least half of the human race is susceptible.

Plant Less Common

Poison sumach, also called "poison ash" or "poison elder," is still more poisonous to the touch but because the plant is much rarer than its ivy relative cases of sumach poisoning are much less common. This shrub or small tree grows in swamps and can be told from the friendly sumachs by the position of the flowering and fruiting sprays. These grow in more or less drooping clusters in the axils of the leaves, instead of at the tip of the branches as in the staghorn and smooth sumachs.

The berries of the poison sumachs are pale greenish or gray, very different from the velvety red berries of the non-poisonous sumachs. Instead of turning red in autumn, as our other sumachs do, the foliage of our poisonous variety turns yellow. In many ways the tree resembles an ash more than a sumach but its loose clusters of pale hard berries cannot be mistaken for the paddle-shaped keys of the ash. Poison oak is a poisonous shrub of the southern states, but both the ivy and the sumach are often erroneously called "poison oak."

Some plant families are more notable than others for having poisonous species in their group. Muenscher lists the following families in this category: lily, crowfoot or buttercup, pulse, spurge, parsley, health, nightshade and composite. Even the aristocratic orchids are not without a blot against them. The hairy leaves and stems of both the showy and yellow ladyslipper cause a dermatitis, or skin poison, especially in hot weather when individuals touching the plants may be perspiring.

Of Crowfoot Family

In the lily group Muenscher lists only one species which may cause dermatitis: American white hellebore. This is a large perennial herb growing in wet meadows and along streams. This plant as well as bunch-flower (not bunch-berry), lily-of-the-valley, star-of-Bethlehem and others of the lily group less common in the state are poisonous when the leaves or other parts are eaten. In this group belongs also the death camas of the western states. This is a large perennial herb growing in wet meadows and along streams. BY GORDON MCINTYRE
SEYMOUR.—And then, for the fifth straight time during the season, Seymour defeated Clintonville. The score was 5 and 0 and Dick Weisberger once more was the winning hurler.

That's the story of yesterday's Seymour—Clintonville. baseball struggle but to say that Dick was the winning hurler isn't enough. He allowed only five hits, one in the first, another in the fifth, two in the sixth and one in the seventh, but he also batted in the first run, he figured in two double plays, he fielded several bunts that almost caught him napping, and he weathered a verbal barrage leveled by every man who wore a Trucker uniform and by a goodly number of Trucker fans.

Rek Krull opposed Seymour and his southpaw slants were touched for only seven hits. He fanned five and walked four but only one of the free passes cost him a run. He was in trouble only in the fifth when he gave up four hits good for three runs.

The first three heats saw only one hit, by Seymour in the first, but saw the Trucks indulge in a mild threat in the second. With one down, Anderson rolled to Powell who bobbed. Anderson then stole second as Trucker fans yelled in glee at Lamers. But Krusen smashed a line drive at Weisberger who doubled the ball, whirled and doubled Anderson off second with much smoothness.

Seymour Scores
The last of the fourth saw Seymour break into the scoring column. Kroening opened with a screacher to left field and Bowers laid one down to sacrifice Kroening to second. Eggert breezed but Weisberger hit past second into right field and Kroening scored.

In the next frame, Seymour went out-and got three more markers. Kelly beat out a bunt down the third base line and stole second. Zelinski fanned and Powell lofted to right but Nicodem saved the day with a single down the third base line. That brought up Kroening and he hit past second into right and Kelly counted, Nicodem going to second. Both crossed the rubber when Bowers golfed a low outside pitch into left center for a double.

The first of the sixth saw Clintonville threaten seriously, but the jinx that follows the Trucker when they play Seymour, stepped in and made a very sad man out of Manager Len Goeringer. After Krull rolled, Steff singled to center and Trimble to left center. Fox then rolled down the third base line and Weisberger fielded the ball and tossed to Zelinski to force Steff. But Eddie dropped the toss and the sacks were loaded.

That brought Casper to the plate. He took a toe hold on one but hit it to the ground to Weisberger who tossed to home plate forcing Steff. Then Lamers wheeled the ball to first getting Casper. It was a nice play.

Trucks in Dumps
After that the Trucks were badly upset and they got only two men as far as first base. In the ninth, with a man on after being hit by a pitched ball, Volkman and Felts, two consistent hitters, fanned.

Clintonville turned in a double killing on Seymour in the last of the sixth, but the Rowmen scored a run in the eighth by the grace of a pebble, or something. With one down, Bowers drew a walk. Eggert came up with three strikeouts for his day's work but instead of swinging at high ones, he waited and finally drew a hard ground-er to short. As Malinosky got ready to handle it, Bowers got credit for his shoulder and Eggert got credit for a double. Bowers legged it all the way home on the play.

The box score:

Dick Metz Cards 18 Under Par for St. Paul Triumph

Chicago Pro Pockets $1,600 After Burning Up Course for New Mark

ST. PAUL, MINN.—Carding a four-round total of 270 strokes, 18 under par, Dick Metz, Chicago pro, claimed first place in the St. Paul open golf tournament which came to a close yesterday after three days' play.

Metz' four rounds of 68-68-68 broke Harry Cooper's four-year-old record for the event by a single stroke and established the lowest score posted this year in a pro golfers' tourney.

The victory was worth $1,600 to Metz who finished five strokes ahead of Henry Picard, P. G. A. champion of Hershey, Pa., who took second money of $1,050.

This kept Picard at the top of the year's money winners with $9,527 but Metz pushed into second place with $8,223, displacing Byron Nelson, Reading, Pa., the national and eastern open champion, who ended up in a tie for 10th and 11th places with Ernie Harrison, Little Rock, Ark.

A stroke back of Picard at 276 was Lloyd Mangrum, Los Angeles, who won $800, while affable Ed Dudley, Philadelphia, came in with 277 and got $600. Tied for fifth and sixth places were the first amateur, Wilford Wehrle, and Ray Mangrum, Oakmont, Pa., pro, at 278.

While one of the game's once-great players, Gene Sarazen, the Brookfield Center, Conn. farmer, shot 279 in a tie with Ralph Guhlal, Madison, N. J. Vic Ghezzi, Deal, N. J., was next with 280.

The next assault on par will be made August 10-13 in the $10,000 tournament at Pittsburgh.

Whehrle of Racine, Wis., easily captured low amateur honors with 72-67 yesterday and a 278 for the three-day battle.

Whehrle also topped the four Wisconsin golfers who played through to the finish. Lynn A. Lander, Jr., of Oconomowoc, also an amateur, finished with 145-147-292. Jim Millward, Madison, had 149-144-293, and Rud Leonard of Rhinelander, 147-148-295.

SEYMOUR TIPS TRUCKERS

Seymour baseball team handed Clintonville, first round champions of the Northern State League, a 5 to 0 trimming yesterday for the fifth straight time during the season. In the upper picture you see Jack Lamers, Seymour catcher, throwing to first base to complete a double play. The runner is Casper and Eggert is waiting for the throw at first. The bases were loaded at the time and one man had been retired. Casper hit to Weisberger who tossed to Lamers getting one man on a forceout. Lamers then wheeled and tossed to first to complete the play. The lower picture shows a group of Clintonville's fair fans behind black glasses and wearing paper hats to keep off the sun. They came to cheer the Trucks but spent most of their time "riding" the umpire and anyone who happened to draw their attention. (Post-Crescent Photos)

Rawe then walked the next two, forcing in the winning tally.

Kiel lived up to expectations by taking its second successive game and beating Chilton, 8 to 6. Hilbert took an easy twin victory from Marytown, 6 to 2 and 13 to 0. Bennett hurled the first game and Hillman the second for Hilbert.

Millers Near Lead
A victory tonight over St. Paul would put the persistent Minneapolis Millers in first place in the American association and push the pace-setting Kansas City Blues into second by four percentage points.

Minneapolis gained a full game on the Blues yesterday with a double victory over Indianapolis while Kansas City was splitting with Columbus.

Bill Butland, Minneapolis hurler, racked up his 13th victory against four defeats, in the first game, scattering nine hits to the Indians to win, 3 to 2. The Millers also won the second contest, 14 to 5, smacking out four home runs.

The double victory pulled the Millers up into a tie with Kansas city for first place in the percentage table, but Minneapolis still was a half game back on won and lost ratings.

Kansas City lost its first game to the Red Birds 2 to 0, on the five-hit pitching of Norbert Kleinknecht. In the nightcap, the Blues, won, 6 to 2, taking a lead in the first inning on Vince DiMaggio's 36th homer with two men on bases.

Louisville climbed into a fourth-place tie with Milwaukee and St. Paul by trouncing the Saints twice, 4 to 2 and 6 to 5.

American Giants Show This Evening

Chicago Team One of Outstanding Negro Nines in U. S.

START PLAY AT 8:30
Appleton and Valley All-Star Squad Opposes Invaders

THE CHICAGO American Giants, leading the Negro American baseball league, and considered one of the outstanding Negro ball teams in the country, will play an all-star Appleton and Fox river valley aggregation at the West Spencer street field tonight. The game will start at 8:30.

The Giants are probably the oldest Negro baseball team in the middle west. They have been known, at various times, as the Union Giants, Chicago Union and Columbia Giants. They claim 17 undisputed world colored championships and at one time were led by that famous Negro hurler, Rube Foster.

Members of the present American League are the Kansas City Monarchs, Memphis Red Sox, Cleveland Caps, Indianapolis A's and the St. Louis Stars. The manager of the present club is "Candy Jim" Taylor, one of the outstanding names in colored ball.

Three members of the club recently were named to the western all-Negro team which will play an all-eastern team. They are Alex Radcliffe, third baseman, five years with the Giants; Billie Horn, second baseman; and "Pepper" Bassett, catcher. The latter is one of the best catchers in the game and it is said of him that "he can catch in a rocking chair."

Making Tour
The invaders are booked out by a reputable Chicago baseball center and have promised to have their best lineups. The team is on a tour of upper Michigan and northern Wisconsin.

Tonight's game has been arranged to bring Appleton "top" baseball under the recently installed Spencer street lights. If the game proves a success, another of the better teams in the middle west may show here.

The team selected to oppose the Giants will be composed of ranking Appleton and Fox river valley talent. It has been selected by Howard "Booze" Bowers, who formerly managed Kaukauna in the Northern State league, and was picked for all-around ability.

Jack Lamers, Little Chute and Seymour receiver, will be behind the plate. Baldy Eggert, Appleton, will be at first base and bat in an important position. Second base will be held down by Bill Peotter, Appleton, while short will show Hammy Powell, Menasha probably the best defensive shortstop in the state loop. At third base there will be Paul Grishaber from the Appleton Athletics, a sensational performer.

The outfield will be presided over by Howard Bowers, Tuffy Horn, Urby Wildenberg and Arnold Kelly, all good hitters and ball hawks.

Six Hurlers Selected

Six hurlers will oppose the Giants and probably will be changed often enough so the invaders don't get too chummy. They will be Bill Noffke of the Appleton Athletics, a right hander; Lefty Art Behr of Kimberly, a southpaw who likes the lights; Hunter Lake, a right hander from Appleton Becher Tavern; John Van Cuyk, Kimberly, who pitched for Bill Terry and the New York Giants at Chicago last Sunday; and Arnold Kelly, Seymour, a southpaw who will double in the outfield; and Lefty Fredericks also of the Athletics.

The umpires will be Hooymann, Kimberly, behind the plate, and Helms, Appleton, on the bases. Because the Spencer street field hasn't been improved to the point where there are permanent seats in great enough numbers, and because many persons have expressed interest in the game, parking of cars on the outfield beyond the light posts will be permitted. A loud speaker system will announce the batters.

Green Bay Packers To Meet All-Stars In Dallas Classic

Dallas, Texas.—College grid stars, seniors of last season, will meet the Green Bay Packers of the National Professional football league in the Cotton Bowl here Labor day.

For the third time since the game originated in 1936, Coach Leo R. (Dutch) Meyer of Texas Christian and Matty Bell of southern Methodist will pilot the all-stars, whose predecessors turned in three, victories against the pros.

The Dallas businessmen club, which sponsors the charity event, said the Packers had agreed to terms. The game will be played at night.

James H. Stewart, southern Methodist athletic director, and director of the game, said invitations to play with the all-stars had been extended to such headline makers as Davey O'Brien, Kl. Aldrich, I. B. Hale of Texas Christian; Billy Patterson and Sam Bord of Baylor and others.

Three stars won, 7-6, over the Chicago Bears in the 1936 game, in 1937 they repeated their victory over George Halas' charges, 6-0, and last year whipped the world champion Washington Redskins 13-7.

New London Tops Two Rivers, 2-1

Bulldogs Onhit but Take Advantage of Iceberg Errors

Two Rivers.—Two Rivers yesterday outthrew New London here yesterday in a Northern State league game when Lucy Alberts allowed only four hits, but the Bulldogs copped a 2 to 1 decision. Two Rivers got five hits.

Two Rivers scored in the first when Blue was safe on Sweedy's overthrow of first and ended up on second base. He counted when Ed-Ed Raab singled to right.

New London got the run back in the fourth. Santorch dropped Steffen's fly in left field and the New London first baseman stopped at second. He went to third on a wild pitch and scored on a passed ball.

In the seventh, New London took the lead. C. Krohn got a hit to center and moved to second when Westphal was safe at first on an error. He counted from third base on O. Krohn's infield roller.

Parker Collects Singles, Doubles Seabright Titles

Topnotch Tennis Players Move on to Southampton Tourney

BY J. P. McEVROY
SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y.—(P)—Headed by the defending champion, Bobby Riggs, and the newly crowned seabright titleholder, Frankie Parker, America's major league tennis players moved to the courts of the Meadow club today for the annual Southampton invitation tournament.

For Riggs, dethroned at Seabright, it was an opportunity to show the tennis mauls his victory at Wimbledon was no fluke; for Parker, although he was not expected to play in the singles, it was a chance to continue the brand of tennis that may place him on the Davis cup team again.

Parker played machine-like tennis yesterday at Seabright to defeat Don McNeill, 21-year-old Oklahoma City star who holds the French hard court title. Given stout resistance in the first two sets, but waltzing through the final set when his foe wilted, Parker scored a 6-3, 8-6, 6-0 victory. It was his seventh title in eight tournaments.

Neither Parker nor McNeill planned to compete in the singles here, but said they would pair in doubles play. They won the Seabright doubles yesterday by beating Gene Mako and Wayne Sabin, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3. Riggs and Edwood Cooker, Wimbledon champions, joined forces again and there was a possibility Jack Crawford and Adrian Quist of the Australian Davis cup squad, would enter.

Among others listed to compete here were Mako, Sabin, Gardner Mulloy, Betsy Grant and Gil Hunt in the singles.

The women stars will play this week in the Maidstone club invitation tourney at nearby East Hampton. Alice Marble, competing in singles for the first time since her return from her Wimbledon triumphs, headed the list which included Helen Jacobs.

Cincinnati Has 12-Game Lead in National League

Wins Fourth Doubleheader Yesterday; Cubs Lose, Sox Split

BY BILL WHITE
Associated Press Sports Writer
BUSINESS NOTE: There's liable to be a whopping building boom in Cincinnati late next month.

The way baseball hysteria is mounting as their favorite Reds skyrocket towards their first title since 1919, those enthusiastic Ohioans were a cinch to tear down the town when the championship's finally clinched. And if they beat the Yankees.

For years National league fans have craved the tight races in their circuit but the Reds are making hash out of that story this year. Latest evidence was found in today's standings which show the Reds 12 games out in front. Even the Yankees weren't that far ahead.

Yesterday the Reds won their third consecutive doubleheader and their fourth in a week. Bucky Walters won his eighteenth victory by 9-2 and Billy Myers clouted a four-run ninth inning homer for a 5-1 decision in the second of two games with the Phillies.

The three-cornered second place race kept up its dizzy whirl. The St. Louis Cardinals managed to sneak in there by winning from the Brooklyn Dodgers twice by identical 5-2 scores.

The Pittsburgh Pirates lost the first game of a twin bill by 7-5 to the Boston Bees and were trailing 5-3 when the Sunday 6 o'clock law stopped the afterpiece.

Habibull Tips Cubs
And the Chicago Cubs didn't fare much better than the Pirates, largely because "old square pants," Carl Hubbell of the Giants—held them to 10 hits and won his fourth of the year, 3-1.

In the American league, the Yankees split a double bill with the Chicago White Sox as George Selkirk pounded out two homers to win the opener, 4-3, and Thornton Lee beat the New Yorker, 5-1 with a seven-hitter in the nightcap.

The Boston Red Sox finally got that brown taste out of their mouths when Jimmy Fox paced them to a 6-4 win over the St. Louis Browns with his twenty-fifth home run.

Detroit's two victories over the Philadelphia Athletics were notable chiefly because the second game gave Freddie Hutchinson, the coast raver, his first major league victory. He didn't last the entire game but got credit for the 5-3 triumph. Buck Newsom brought home his twelfth of the year and his ninth for the Tigers, 14-0, by holding the A's to five hits.

The Washington Senators gave Joe Krackauer another victory when they slammed out a 5-2 win over the Indians.

Neenah Splits With Waukau '9

Wins First Game on Forfeit, Loses Second By 9 to 8

Neenah.—Waukau edged out a 1-point victory over the Neenah Foundry, 9 to 8, in a Wolf River Valley league game Sunday afternoon at Washington park diamond. Neenah won the first game of a doubleheader by forfeit.

Neenah was trailing Waukau, 8 to 2, in the last half of the eighth inning, when the Foundry made a determined effort to close the gap, but they fell short by two points, scoring only six runs.

Waukau took an early lead, counting two runs in the opening frame, while Neenah got one. During the next three innings, both nines went scoreless, but Neenah deadlocked the count in the fifth. 2-all Waukau scored four runs in the seventh and two more in the eighth, getting its final run in the ninth.

Waukau got 11 hits off the combined offerings of Neenah's three pitchers, Pierce, Davis and Gullickson, while the Foundry batters counted 10 safeties of Sues. Waukau flinger.

CHUTERS BEAT KAPPS
Little Chute Spotted the Kaukauna Mellow Brews 10 runs in the initial frame on six errors, three hits and a hit batsman, and local A. A. came back to win in the tenth inning, 15 to 14. It was one of the wildest games ever played at the local park. McGuire started on the mound for the Dutchmen and after seeing his mates throw the ball away, instead of throwing his glove over the grandstand, he showed his stout heart to stay in and battle until the eighth when he gave way to Call. The latter held the visitors in check.

The highlights of the game were McGuire's triple, a steal home on Eddie Schuler's windup in the ninth, Call's perfect squeeze play in the tenth to send Lucassen home with the tying run, and Baker Versteegen's single in the tenth to send Lucassen home with the winning run after Snare singled and scored.

The locals outthrust the visitors getting 18 hits to Kaukauna's 10. Snooky Van Dyke got four for six, a triple, double and two singles. Versteegen, McGuire and Lucassen collected three for six.

Joe Guerts paced the losers with two for three besides getting hit by a wild pitch three times in a row. Dago Schuler started on the mound for the Mellow Brews but left in the fourth with the Dutchmen still trailing 7 to 10. Eddie Schuler took over.

Children's Talents Rarely Need Parental Development

By Angelo Patri

"I think that Tommy is going to be a mechanical genius."

"Why? He is only four. Rather early to decide what he is or may be."

"Children always show their strongest bent early. Read about the great men and you'll see that right away."

"But is liking trains and toy planes and trucks and wagons a sign of genius?"

"I didn't say genius, exactly. A strong trend. That might mean genius, you know."

"It might, but I doubt it. I used to like such things when I was a boy and I haven't noticed any genius in my makeup. Not so far anyway."

"Just the same I'm going to send for a set of tests and see. If he has a high I.Q. I'm going to develop it. It would be a sin to miss it."

If you're asking me, Mary, let the child alone. He is ours and I assure you that there isn't a sign of genius in either of us, or in our families. We just manage to get by and I, for one, am delighted to see that the youngster has all his senses. Let him alone."

"Oh, you have no family pride or ambition. Look at what the Charles are doing with their child, dancing lessons, elocution lessons, behavior training, getting her ready for the stage and no older than our Tommy, and not half as good looking, if I do say it myself."

"Our son isn't headed for the stage, Mary, not."

"I didn't say he was. I think, and I'll think so until I prove I'm wrong, that he has mechanical ability beyond the ordinary, and if he has it ought to be developed. That's our duty."

"It's my duty to see that he gets three square meals a day, and a decent home. After that I think he will manage, especially if he gets a good education."

"Isn't that what I'm talking about?"

Not quite. Children of normal health and intelligence live in a world of action. They keep moving all their waking hours. They are driven to activity by the force of their curiosity, a force intended to push them into a thorough search for first hand experiences that will inform them about the world they live in. All their interests center on things that are active, or that can be used actively.

Children have no use for things that stay fixed once they have looked at them, felt them, tasted them, smelled them, if possible. They have gotten their knowledge about them possible to get and go on to something that promises action. Any toy that does things, turns its wheels, gets from one place to another, that allows of being taken apart and put together again, holds their interest. Planes, boats, automobiles, trucks, are easy to get and offer plenty of activity interest. And healthy, normal minded child finds them interesting.

This interest may last, and it may not. That depends upon the mental ability of the child, and his mental and physical characteristics. These develop over a long period of years. Four years are not enough to base any decision upon. Wait a little. Genius is NEVER killed. It is always dominant.

CASE RECORDS OF A PSYCHOLOGIST

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

If you wish to learn the magic word which will win you sweet heart and hold your male's devotion forever, if you want to win friends and popularity, or hold a good job or reduce labor troubles, be sure to read today's Case Record. This magic word beats "Open, Sesame!" all hollow!

CASE 9-107 Alma B., aged 36, is active in many civic organizations.

"That is a beautiful grand piano your husband gave you," a friend commented at her birthday party.

"You are the envy of all the wives who are present, I'll wager."

But Alma did not immediately reply. And when she turned, her eyes were misty with unshed tears.

"Yes, it's lovely, all right, and I am grateful. But, oh, I'd gladly exchange it for a little affection. If he'd only kiss me occasionally, or place his arms around me."

"Or if he'd suggest that we steal off alone for a movie date and then sit beside me and just hold my hand I'm not entirely ungrateful for my new piano, or the town car or my recent trip to Europe."

"But I long for little, personal signs of his love. I guess we women are funny that way, aren't we?"

DIAGNOSIS:

Yes, women are funny that way, but so are children, too. A youngster enjoys gifts, such as tricycle or bicycle, wagon, scooter and toys.

It but needs the little evidences of affection to reassure himself each day.

His parents should kiss him good-bye and goodnight. They should drape an arm about his shoulders or occasionally hold the child on their lap, or let him climb in bed with them once in awhile.

Wives need these same daily evidences of affection. Though they may appreciate tangible gifts, like pianos or vacuum sweepers, they still long for compliments and physical caresses.

"You haven't told me you loved me for weeks," a wife recently chided her husband.

Don't Starve Your Wife

"Aw, act your age, her husband irritably retorted from the depths of the sport page of his newspaper.

"That's just kid stuff. I give you my pay check every week, don't I?"

Where I stand, I'll tell you when I quit loving you, so you don't need to keep pestering me about it all the time."

Such a man may give his children food and clothing each week, and a roof above their heads, but the children will need more than these abstract evidences of affection or they'll never believe their father loves them.

Women react much as do children as regards their frequent need for verbal and physical proof of love. Women as a rule are less interested in abstractions, anyway, than are men, which is one reason why they are less fond of mathematics and sciences in their school work.

Women, however, seem to prefer languages and social studies in the curriculum. It behooves every husband, therefore, to feed his wife a little emotional nourishment each day.

Money Versus Compliments

You can be a millionaire and lavishly indulge your wife, yet lose her to a penniless man, if the latter matches your dollars with personal compliments for the woman.

Money does not purchase love. It can procure deference and a woman's body. It may buy her loyalty, but it will not produce love. Even a deaf man has to learn how to talk on his fingers in order to win his deaf sweetheart, despite the fact there may be thousands of dollars in his pocket.

Tactless husbands must also learn how to talk. They must compliment their wife and give her a real movie kiss, at least occasionally, as a variation from the perfunctory peck on the cheek. Remember, love is nurtured with compliments and dies without them, so the word "Compliment" is greater even than the word "Love." Kisses and caresses are also forms of compliment.

Player Often Is Fooled by 'Solid' Hand

By Ely Culbertson

Many a player is lost merely because the declarer feels that "with all those tricks in his hand" there is no chance of things going wrong.

This, of course, always follows a superficial analysis but, surprisingly enough, even experts are guilty in this connection.

The bidding:
South 1 heart West Pass North Pass East Pass

It took considerable restraint on South's part to pass to North's four heart bid, but actually, of course, South's three and one-half honor tricks hardly could be enough for a slam, in view of the fact that North's immediate jump to game denied possession of more than two honor tricks.

Perhaps South went at the play with the feeling that, since he had thought wistfully about a slam, there was no great need for care at a mere game contract. Whatever his feeling, he found that some of the most "solid looking" hands can turn on their holders and bite them.

West opened the jack of clubs. Declarer won in his own hand, drew trumps in two leads, then cashed the club ace. He then led to the diamond ace and exited with the remaining diamond. East won and made a magnificent return.

The deuce of spades! East had carefully observed declarer's tactics, and was quite ready to believe that the diamonds and clubs really were stripped from the South hand, as well as from dummy. If that were so, then West had started out with five diamonds and five clubs. He had shown two hearts, therefore, and could have held only one spade. If this were the spade ace (and South had the king), it would do no good to lead the queen through the closed hand because declarer (if he played correctly) would not cover the first spade lead, and the blank ace would fall. This, however, would not be the worst thing that could happen. The really important point was that West might have the blank king, as he did.

It would be observed that if East had made the persuasive and "normal" play of the spade queen, declarer could not have gone astray. On East's actual lead of the deuce, however, declarer became careless and wrecked himself. He went right up with the ace. After that, there was no way to avoid the loss of three tricks to East's Q-J-10 of spades and these, in addition to the diamond already taken by the defenders, defeated the contract.

While East's play of the spade deuce deserved full credit, it could not have succeeded if declarer had been on his toes. There was nothing to gain by putting up the spade ace on the first lead of the suit and, as we have seen, there was a great deal to lose. If the spade suit broke 3-2, the contract would be safe, no matter how declarer played, but a 4-1 break is by no means extraordinary and, when provision can be taken against it, it is only logical that it should be taken. Declarer should have ducked on East's spade lead, conceding the trick to West. On winning with the blank king, West would have had to return a diamond or a club, on either of which declarer could discard a spade from one hand while ruffing in the other, then concede only one more spade trick to the defenders. This is one of those safety plays that escapes notice because of its very simplicity.

ARCTIC ADVENTURES

1--The Journey Starts

It was a day in early June, and a 14-year-old boy was thinking of what he might do during his summer vacation. His name was Kenneth Rawson, and he was soon to complete the term at the boarding school which he attended.

Commander MacMillan and Kenneth Rawson.

Suddenly a messenger came to his door, and told him to answer a long-distance telephone call. Soon he was talking with his father, who said to him, "Do you want to go to the Arctic this summer with MacMillan, the famous explorer?"

For a few moments the boy could hardly believe his ears, but his father said that Commander Donald MacMillan was really ready to take him up to Greenland.

You may be sure Kenneth was filled with the spirit of adventure in the days which followed. After he had finished his school term, he went home for a few days, and his father and mother helped him choose an "outfit" for the journey. Then he was entrained for a small seaport in Maine, where MacMillan's ship, the "Bowdoin," was at anchor.

The "Bowdoin" was only 88 feet long, but had been built for Arctic travel. The hull was shaped in such a way that if ice formed around it, the pressure would tend to push it upward, instead of crushing it. The bow was armored with an iron plate, which would help when the vessel crashed against ice.

Kenneth was glad to see there were sails on the "Bowdoin." For several summers, he had taken part in sailing as a sport, and he thought the knowledge he had gained would be helpful on this trip. Besides the sails, there was a propeller driven by an engine which could burn either kerosene or whale oil.

There was much work in loading the vessel, and Kenneth did his full share. At last the great day came, and the "Bowdoin" left the harbor. It sailed northward, and for a time was in sight of the shore of Nova Scotia. A stop was made at Cape Breton Island, and fresh water was taken aboard.

Then onward they went toward Labrador. Along the way, Kenneth saw an iceberg for the first time in his life. It was followed by other bergs, but the "Bowdoin" was piloted safely past them all.

Roosevelt, One of Few Heads With Purpose, Program, Will Fight to Make New Deal Stick

BY MORGAN M. BEATTY

Washington—(AP)—You can come as close as anybody else to solving the third term puzzle, if you'll just hold the 1939 Congressional Record up to the x-ray of history.

The 1939 record—all 20 pounds of it—is proof that presidential influence with congress is on the down grade. The president lost about as many big battles as he won on Capitol hill this year, notably his fight to keep American foreign policy out of the strait-jacket of law.

That's not a good sign for the New Deal. As long as congressional disagreements continue, he can't be sure that the New Deal will last beyond his two terms. He will be apprehensive that part of this program, at least, will be discarded.

Franklin D. Roosevelt is definitely a president with a purpose and a program. Few presidents have had both—a purpose and a program, or pattern, for carrying it out—Jefferson, Jackson, Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt and Franklin D. Roosevelt. Each raised a cry in the land and tried to bend the will of the nation toward his ideal.

With Jefferson, it was the "Common Man"; with Jackson, "The People"; with Theodore Roosevelt, the "Square Deal"; with Wilson, the "New Freedom"; and with F. D. R., the "New Deal."

Previous Fights It is significant that our two greatest presidents, Washington and Lincoln, were men with a purpose, but not a program. Their purpose was to hold the nation together. So engrossed were they in that task that they had precious little time to cut out patterns or programs for the future.

Up to Franklin D. Roosevelt, every president with both a program and a purpose, save one, not only fought while in office to make them stick, but also carried the struggle beyond their tenure in the White House. Oddly enough, each chose the same course of action. Each put his chosen disciple in line for the White House, and then fought for the election of the disciple.

Only Wilson failed to do that, and it wasn't because he didn't want to. It was because he was a wreck, as one close to him expressed it, when the time came to choose a successor.

Jefferson — the one man who openly condemned the establishment of a line of succession in the White House—actually held the reins in his own hand for 16 years, longer than any later president.

So great was his influence when he stepped down, that he was able to dictate the nomination of two of his disciples, Madison and Monroe. As strong as they might have been in their own right, Madison and Monroe both were in the modern vernacular, "Jefferson ves men" when it came to principles of government.

The fiery Jackson boosted Martin Van Buren into the saddle in the hope that the New York politician would carry on the struggle for "The People." Almost blind and suffering from tuberculosis, the aging Jackson continued to write letters of advice and warning to Van Buren up to the end. Had he lived, he would have been woefully disappointed in his "yes man."

For Van Buren could never say yes or no at the right time.

Although Theodore Roosevelt had not served two complete terms by 1908 he very frankly dictated his successor, William Howard Taft, to the Republican convention of that year. Like Jackson's Van Buren, Teddy Roosevelt's Taft was a sore disappointment to his mentor. So far from the blueprints had the Roosevelt "Square Deal" become by 1912 that the fighting breed himself stepped into the breach. But he was too late. Wilson's New Freedom carried the day.

F. D. R. Program Like all these, Franklin Roosevelt has introduced new principles and new ideas. He's written a new labor law. He's put stock exchange

Repairs Made at District School

New Warehouse Being Erected at Forest Junction Grain Elevator

Forest Junction — Carrying out the instructions of the last annual school meeting in District 7, town of Brillion, miscellaneous repairs at McKinley school were being completed Saturday by a carpenter crew which had been employed at the place for a week. Using a $300 appropriation which had been voted in 1938, insulation of the floor and ceiling of the one-room school house was included in the project, in addition to a new roof on the building, for which the amount had been originally voted.

Another building project nearing completion in the village is a two-story warehouse, 36 by 60 feet, with basement, being erected by Krueger brothers adjacent to their grain elevator properties. The building is being coated with metal siding and steel roof. The basement will be equipped with cold-storage lockers, with the upper floors used for storage of feeds and seeds.

A new residence at the Albert Stebanc farm, replacing the one destroyed by fire on the morning of May 16, has been under construction and lacks only the addition of interior woodwork before the place will be ready for occupancy. The new building is a full two-story frame structure, of the Colonial type, measuring 32 by 40 feet, which, with sun-room addition, is approximately the size of the building which burned.

Services Tuesday for Mrs. Robert Russell

Clintonville—Funeral services for Mrs. Robert Russell, 52, will be conducted by the Rev. E. C. F. Stubenvoll at 1:30 Tuesday afternoon at the residence on route 3 and at 2 o'clock in Christus Lutheran church. Burial will be made in Graceland cemetery.

Mrs. Russell died at 4:15 Saturday morning at New London after a major operation on Friday. Born May 21, 1887, at Richmond, Wis., Helena Yordi later moved to Clintonville with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Yordi. She was married in 1904 to Robert Russell, since when they have lived on their present farm.

Survivors are the widower, two daughters, Mrs. Arnold Hoffman, Clintonville, and Mrs. Arthur Lohff, Pella; her father, Fred Yordi of Symco; three brothers, Otto Yordi, es under the watchful eye of government. He's recognized relief of the unemployed as an obligation of government. And he's introduced the principle of social security.

Some of these ideas, and the New Deal's methods of carrying them out, are under heavy fire, with only a year or so to go. If congress keeps on getting rebel notions, the fire will grow heavier, as the end of the second term draws near.

If Franklin Roosevelt is anything at all like his predecessors with a program and a purpose, he's going to fight to make his New Deal stick.

The natural weapon to use would be control over the next Democratic convention. If he has that control, he can make the Democratic party take whatever discipline he may choose or take himself again.

FOUR BLIND DATES

stand how to spell Cutler. Well, goodby and the best of luck."

"The same to you," said the bartender.

As Jumbo passed out into the street there was nothing of the hunted or furtive which had characterized his bearing before he had hit on the brilliant idea of invading Monyhan's bar. Instead, he moved with a cold, deadly purpose. For his mind, single-tracked by alcohol, was able to grasp but one fact. In spite of the havoc he had wrought amid the cheese popcorn and the ham sandwiches, he was still hungry.

Yes, hungry! Thinking of the indigestibles he had consumed at the expense of Mr. Monyhan, he permitted himself to sneer. They were as nothing. He had merely taken them in his stride as a polar bear who has missed his supper might take a can of sardines. What he needed, he saw clearly, was food. Squaring his shoulders he stalked boldly into a likely-looking restaurant.

He seated himself with a plop. A waiter advanced obsequiously.

"Yes, sir," said the waiter. "Anything to drink, sir?"

"Now you're talking," Jumbo waved his hand in lordly fashion. "A Scotch and soda, double Scotch."

"Yes, sir," said the waiter, moving away.

"Here," snapped Jumbo, "do you suppose I don't want dessert?"

"Sorry, sir," said the waiter, marveling "What'll it be?"

"A wedge of apple-pie a la mode," ordered Jumbo grandly. "Hunk of cheese."

The waiter nodded and started off.

"Hey, you!" called Jumbo suddenly.

The waiter slid back to his side.

Jumbo struck the table with his open hand.

"And make it snappy!" he stipulated.

flourishing a menu. Jumbo waived it aside.

"See here!" he said imperiously. "I want you to go out and kill a beef. Then I want you to cut a steak five inches thick and broil it rare. And if it isn't tender I'll send it back, so help me."

"The waiter, an astute observer, perceived himself in the presence of one who had looked upon the wine. He adopted toward Jumbo that attitude of professional tolerance peculiar to his kind.

"Yes, sir," he said.

Jumbo banged the table.

"Smother that steak," he commanded, "under three pounds of mushrooms sauted in butter. Big mushrooms. Surround that steak and those mushrooms with mashed potatoes. Bring me side orders of string beans, broccoli and artichokes with hollandaise sauce. And don't talk back to me."

"Yes, sir," said the waiter. "Anything to drink, sir?"
